Bobbi -- In the midst of the Enron bankruptcy in december, I discussed my situation (my wife's late term pregnancy) with my immediate supervisor Ted Murphy. We agreed that with the uncertainty, we should return to Houston and check with Ted's Houston team for next steps. When I returned to Houston and requested information on my work status, no one was able to inform me whether I was employed or had been laid off. At this point, I decided to use my outstanding vacation time to find a place to live and prepare for the baby. We are expecting the baby's arrival at any time. Afterwards, I will take a paternity leave and discuss my options with Ted at that time. Regards, Rudi PS feel free to call me at 281-893-9984 with questions.

Quick Look Techniques class- Good Seats Still Available

Sender	aschram@scacompanies.com
Recipients	['aschram@scacompanies.com']
File	buy-r/inbox/1010.

SCA is pleased to inform you there are still available seats in an upcoming "Quick Look Techniques for Prospect Evaluation" class scheduled in Houston, Texas on October 30-31, 2001. The class will be held at SCA's offices, 2500 Tanglewilde, Suite 120, from 8:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m., Tuesday and Wednesday. Below is the description of the course.

Quick Look Techniques for Prospect Evaluation A Must Course for Anyone who Generates or Evaluates Interpretations and Prospects!!!

Description: This course addresses the need for a systematic approach for quickly screening prospects and identifying fundamental mapping errors. The application of the methods used in our Applied Subsurface Geological Mapping course as quick look techniques is the core of this course. The most common errors found on subsurface prospects are illustrated with numerous examples from throughout the industry. It's easy to drill a dry hole on a good prospect; it only has to be mapped a little bit wrong. QLTs are powerful and efficient tools for recognizing sometimes subtle mapping errors that lead to poorly located drilling locations. The course begins with a review of examples of mapping errors that lead to poorly located wells that were uneconomic or dry. Methods used to address the risk factors that can cause dry holes are reviewed. Specific QLTs that can be used to identify critical mapping errors are covered in the remainder of the course. The course manual is our textbook, "Quick Look Techniques for Prospect Evaluation."

Who should attend? Supervisors, managers, vice-presidents, prospect evaluators, and anyone involved in preparing, reviewing or evaluating subsurface interpretations and prospects. Attendees who have a background knowledge of mapping techniques will derive a more complete benefit from this course.

Course Content

. QLT Overview with Examples . Philosophical Doctrine of Mapping . Dry Hole Analysis . Effect of Contouring Method Choice . General Structure Map QLTs . Faulted Structure Map QLTs . Fault Surface Section Pitfall . Vertical Separation versus Throw . Directional Well QLTs . TVT for Fault Cuts and Net Pay . Isochore Map QLTs

Instructors:

Daniel J. Tearpock, CEO Joseph L. Brewton Larry Walker, Ph.D.

Tuition: $600 (includes textbook, exercise manual, and light refreshments) You may pay by company check or by MasterCard, Visa, American Express, or Diner's Club. Payment must be received two weeks in advance of the class.

Enrollment Deadline: October 12, 2001

For your convenience, I am attaching a registration form, or you may visit our web site to enroll, www.scacompanies.com. We look forward to meeting you in Houston. If you have any questions, please contact me by e-mail, pgeary@scacompanies.com or by telephone, 001-713-789-2444.

In FY 2002, research and development was funded at its largest dollar amount in U.S. history and the largest percentage increase in nearly 20 years, according to a recently released AAAS report. Health, defense and counter-terrorism related research show the biggest gains.

For more information, see: <http://xserver.aaas.org/news/fedsupport.html>

OMB ISSUES INFORMATION QUALITY STANDARDS TO AGENCIES The Office of Management and Budget has issued guidelines to federal agencies to add information quality standards to the procedural requirements agencies must meet with regard to their disseminated information. The agencies can be sued if information agencies disseminate or use to develop regulations, fails to meet OMB's standards. At least 50 federal offices are covered by OMB's guidelines, including: the Environmental Protection Agency, the White House, the Department of Defense, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the Department of Agriculture, the Department of Labor, the Tennessee Valley Authority, the Securities and Exchange Commission, and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

STATE OF TECHNOLOGY IN MARYLAND TO BE HELD IN ANNAPOLIS

ASME will join with the Technology Council of Maryland in co-sponsoring an annual gathering of Maryland lawmakers and industry leaders to discuss technology-based economic development. This year's program will feature technology-based entrepreneurship. Hear about challenges, accomplishments and opportunities from successful Maryland technology start-ups as well as examine how schools and universities are preparing future engineering, science and technology entrepreneurs.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF BIOMEDICAL IMAGING AND BIOENGINEERING SEES FUNDING INCREASE

Congress increased the National Institute of Biomedical Imaging and Bioengineering (NIBIB)'s budget from its $2 million start-up funding in FY2001 to $40 million for FY2002, plus an additional $72 million in existing imaging and biomedical funding transferred to NIBIB from other national health institutes. In report language, a nine-member extramural task force was called for to review bioengineering and imaging projects throughout the National Institutes of Health.

For more information, please contact Melissa Murray at murraym@asme.org.

PRESIDENT SIGNS BROWNFIELDS LEGISLATION

Last week, President Bush signed legislation aimed at boosting clean up of brownfields, abandoned or underutilized industrial or commercial properties. Redevelopment of these properties is hindered by possible environmental contamination and potential liability. The bill provides liability protection for contiguous property owners, prospective purchasers, and innocent landowners and authorizes increased funding for state and local programs that assess and clean up brownfields. The legislation had bipartisan support.

The President also announced that his FY 03 budget will double the funds available through the EPA for FY02, to help states and communities around the country clean up and revitalize these sites. Urban redevelopment and brownfields cleanup also will be funded at a level of $25 million through the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Rick,

I am writing in regards to a training seminar I am developing on enterprise risk management for the power/energy sector. I am inviting speakers for the course and would very much like for you to participate as an instructor.

Our training seminars are structured as interactive workshops. We limit the audience to about 20 people and bring in 2-3 instructors to facilitate the course - generally speakers present for half-day sessions.

I'm attaching a draft of topics that could be covered. I will follow up with more details but please let me know if you have an initial interest in participating. <<agenda.doc>> Thank you, Clare Fitzgerald marcus evans 303 E. I do not know if you are looking for anyone right now in your group, but attached is the resume of a woman I used to work with at American General Corporation ("AGC"). She was an excellent business person. I worked with her on private placement transactions. One of the responsibilities of a private placement analyst at AGC was credit analysis. If I can answer any questions about her let me know. The only reason she is currently looking is because of the possible job losses following the acquisition of AGC by AIG.

Legal Risk Memo -- sale of Enron interest in UtiliQuest

Attached is the legal risk memo for the proposed sale by certain Enron entities of their interest in UtiliQuest LLC. This transaction has been given a legal risk ranking of 2.0 (on a scale of 1.0 to 5.0, with 1.0 indicating minimal legal risk), primarily due to potential post-closing indemnification obligations.

The legal risks discussed in this memo were also set forth in the DASH; however, please note the following correction to the DASH: while the Enron entities' pro rata share of the maximum potential liability under the seller indemnity is $20.7 million, Enron and the other sellers have joint and several liability for indemnification obligations which are capped at $30 million, and Enron will be liable for the entire $30 million if the non-Enron sellers cannot satisfy their pro rata share of the liability under the seller indemnity (note that Enron is not guaranteeing or backstopping the other sellers' share of this liability in any way; however, the purchaser may choose to hold Enron liable for the entire liability, and leave Enron to pursue the other sellers for their share).

Please contact me if you have any questions.

Dear Rick,

I quickly wanted to send you my new contact information as well as ask you about my Cash Balance Plan. My fifth anniversary with Enron is coming up this Sunday, December 9.

The Cash Balance Plan vests after five years and I want to make sure that HR's comments to me regarding the plan are right. HR (Sheila Walton) told me last week that I need not to worry about vesting in the plan since we will officially still be Enron employees as long as we are getting paid severance. With the latest information we got this seems to be questionable now. HR and Benefits do not seem to know what is going on now; all my questions remained unanswered when I called them this morning. Benefits stated that as long as my termination date was after the 9th of December I would vest. HR doesn't seem to know when my official termination date is. If needed, I have more than 10 days of unused vacation; I could be deemed on vacation and terminated after the 9th.

I would like to ask you to help me with this matter and try to set my termination date after December 9, i.e. at the earliest next Monday. I feel that the company has left us with absolutely nothing but an extreme lack of information and loads of unanswered questions. I do not see myself in a position where I want to give my Cash Balance Plan up.

My contact information is: Carol North 651 Bering Dr. #1705 Houston, TX 77057

Tel: 713-972-1002 (hm) 713-530-4746 (mob) email: cnorth@houston.rr.com

Thanks again for all your efforts, I really enjoyed my time in RAC, and you were right, I did learn many useful tools for my future endeavors.

Best regards,

Carol North

EH&S Data Management and Process Safety Management Technology

Sender	drerupd@ds-s.com
Recipients	['drerup@enron.com', 'drerupd@ds-s.com']
File	buy-r/inbox/877.

Every quarter or so, Data Systems & Solutions hosts seminars to educate clients in the process industries on the value of integrated environmental, health & safety management information systems (EMIS). Our last seminar on May 3, 2001 resulted in over 30 clients attending.

We are planning two additional seminars this year (Integrating Process Safety Management - October 11th) and (Integrated EH&S Solutions - November 6th). We vary topics/vendors to meet the needs of the marketplace. For instance, you will notice that Sustainable Development is a "hot" topic right now. Overall, the top three interests we are hearing from our customers on the topic of EMIS include:

1. Sustainable Development "Triple Bottom Line" coupled with Key Performance Metrics/Roll-Up Reporting
2. Integrating Information Systems with EMIS
3. Risk Reduction

The ever looming concern over cost justification has become much clearer and will be addressed in future seminars. Even today, there is no "panacea" for EH&S software applications. Most vendors address the "E" picture or the "H&S" picture, but do not cover both holistically. With emerging information technology protocols such as extensible markup language (XML) it is now possible to get a true "best of breed" solution that will allow you to "plug and play" modules instead of hoping for everything in one software vendor. Unfortunately, the EMIS software marketplace still remains unconsolidated and there are inherent risks with selecting a software vendor. The goal of our one day seminar is to address all of these concerns and to help our customers to understand what is involved in a typical EMIS project...from an initial assessment of your needs, to determining the value of an EMIS and the core reasons for doing it, to selecting systems where gaps exist, to allocating proper resources to ensure a successful project, to implementing the solution, to integrating with other facility information systems, and maintenance and training.

Let us know if you or anyone from your organization are interested in attending our seminar. We want to give you the most value possible in our one day educational forum. Please let us know if there is anything in particular that you would like to get information on that may not be covered in the topics listed on the agenda.

<http://www.ds-s.com/Products/EH&S/index.htm> gives a current listing of our EMIS services.

Simon

I have run an indicative credit reserve which comes out at $15m.

It should be made clear at this stage the number is only indicative and subject to further change and discussion. Forward price curves and volatilities will need to be confirmed, as will the option structure.

We still want to achieve the best possible contractual terms through pursuing collateral rights and should consider other risk-mitigating options such as bankruptcy protection. The tenor and $ exposure would warrant sign-off at a very senior level, and will obviously be covered by the DASH approval.

The deal is clearly of great value to Enron, but we should question the motives of Balli in wanting or needing to do this. How much do we know about their existing banking relationships and ability to access funding at present?

I'm sure we will discuss further.

Ted

Bruce Garner has asked me to bring you into a trade we're looking at with Balli-Klockner (BK). Ken Curry was asked to evaluate a related proposal a week back but is now on holiday and Rebecca Phillips was not brought up to speed. This latest proposal would be a European trade and the client is under time constraints and keen to move fast.

The transaction is as follows:

Enron has the right to sell to BK physical Hot Rolled Coil steel at Index (CRU HRC) + 7.5%

Start: Jan2002

End: Dec2016

Tonnage: 500 000 Metric Tonnes per annum (total tonnage: 7.5 million MT)

Enron pays a premium of 30 million USD upon contracting.

The CRU Index is Enron's benchmark steel index and physical steel trades at Index flat. There is thus 7.5% intrinsic value in the puts which translates to approx. $75 million USD in present value terms ($45million net of premium).

Our counterparty would be the parent of the soon to be combined Balli Klockner PLC and the various Balli service centres soon to be merged (BK Holdings Ltd UK). BK are not offering us additional credit relief, ie. bank guarantees, LC's, insurance bonds, etc. Your help in establishing our appetite and an appropriate credit charge for this transaction would be much appreciated.

Many thanks

Hello Andy.

It's been a long time since we talked, but I trust that things are well with you and Lea.

The reason for my email is that my business partners Sunil Hirani and Dik Blewitt are going to be in Houston visiting with Ken Lay at 10:30 A.M. on Wednesday. I think that you would find their business (trading credit risk) to be of interest, and I know they would like to meet you.

Would you have any time on your calendar for lunch or for an introduction during the afternoon?

Briefly, Sunil is the co-founder of creditex, a the credit derivatives trading platform that the market has adopted as the e-market for credit derivatives. Dik is Chief Strategic Officer of creditex.

My relationship with Dik and Sunil comes from our shared interest in trading syndicated loans. creditex and I have co-founded LoanX, Inc., to do for the loan market what creditex has done for the credit derivatives market.

Sorry for the out-of-the blue email, but I look forward to catching up with you in the future.

I've copied Sunil and Dik to facilitate any schedule coordination that might be possible.

My best to Lea.

... how about an LBO?

Certain high net worth executives sponsor the deal in conjunction with a major financial investor such as JPM/Chase or Citibank. Force the share trust participants to go along and cut in all management and employees. It gets the company out of the spotlight and might have some real attraction for deal starved investors... esp at this price level. It could remotivate everyone and provide a way to recover some of the lost value that had accrued to the employees over the years. Obviously, some stakeholders would do better than others but that's the way it goes sometimes.

Just a thought.

Hang in there.

Just a quick followup to my voice mail of earlier this afternoon---

I represent an Executive Search Firm based in Atlanta and have been retained by an international leader in the energy industry to pursue Director-level talent; as it happens, my client has recently indicated an express interest in speaking with you. Since I'd imagine you've been inundated with calls and e-mails similar to mine, in an effort to eliminate any confusion I should tell you that we tried to contact you yesterday (my associate, Michael Allen, left you a voice mail).

I understand that the environment at Enron must be a challenging one at this point; however, if you're interested in talking/listening and are in a position to take a short break, the President/COO of my client company is in Houston today and is curious as to whether you'd by some remote chance be free this afternoon or evening for a brief chat. I realize that this is highly unorthodox, but also feel that standing on ceremony is perhaps not always the most prudent approach.

I'll wait to hear from you in regard to your interest level---and if you're not available today (as I'm assuming to be the case), we can obviously reschedule for a time that's a bit more reasonable. Thanks---

Sincerely,

Marcy Brinegar MBM Consultants (770) 886-6202 (770) 886-8202 (fax) brinconsult@aol.com mbmconsult@adelphia.net

Activity on desks is dramatically scaled back. Most of the time traders are focused on setting curves. Mid office has the most work, booking cancellations out of commercial book into bankruptcy book. Currently it still appears as if the commercial book has more deals in it than the bankruptcy book. Creditors with deals showing significant market-to-market gains in their favor are reluctant to book out of trades and question valuations, suggesting that going to settlement might be preferred. Legal is deciding difference between "executable" contracts (able to negate deal) and "forward" contracts (collapse deal), with one interpretation being beneficial for EES and the other being beneficial for wholesale. South America appears to have similar issues with Duke requesting collateral before willing to book out of transaction, suggesting high likelihood of physical settlement.

In summary, the positions being captured in value-at-risk are questionable, given slow and tedious process of cancellation/booking. However, below is the VAR COB 12/18/01.

Entity VAR Historical VAR ? Corp $68.9MM $60.7MM ? Americas $46.5MM $39.6MM ? Gas $17.6MM $23.8MM ? Power $48.9MM $49.5MM ? So. Cone Pwr $239K $239K ? So. Cone Gas $63K $63K

You are going to love this one! From a friend in California.

Akhmed came to the United States from Afghanistan, and he was only here a few months when he became very ill. He went to doctor after doctor, but none of them could help him.

Finally, he went to an Arab doctor. The doctor said, "Take dees bucket, go into de odder room, shit in de bucket, piss on de shit, and den put your head down over de bucket and breathe in de fumes for ten minutes."

Akmed took the bucket, went into the other room, shit in the bucket, pissed on the shit, bent over and breathed in the fumes for ten minutes.

Coming back to the doctor he said, "It worked. I feel terrific! What was it?"

The doctor said, "You were homesick."

This counterparty's line of business is the distribution of pornography. I asked Robbi Rossi her thoughts, and legal is OK with the deal because there is no illegality (as long as it does not involve child pornography). Jane has the company's tax returns. It is a 1 year on-net OC-12 from Seattle to San Jose plus local loop with an MRC of 22K per month. This is a transaction which according to our guidelines we would approve with no credit language in the GTCs due to size. There is no income being marked on the deal. I just wanted to be sure all parties are aware of what we are doing (Jim and Paul are aware per below message). Clearly this is not credit risk; however, it seems plausible that there is the potential for this deal to reflect negatively on Enron if it were to become known in the market that we were selling our network capacity to customers in this line of business.

Thanks, Tanya

Jane,

I asked Paul and Jim if there was a problem with doing a deal with Flying Crocodile, and the response was that we will deal with them so long as they contractually agree that they will not use the capacity for any unlawful purpose (which is a standard clause in our agreement). Therefore, we will move ahead with this. As I told you earlier, the mark on the long-haul is likely to be negative, and it is an on-net circuit so we can absorb it back if they default. The local loop is off-net, so I would imagine that you will want some protection on that side. Let me know if you need anything else from me.

Thanks, BG

Cost Saving Proposal

Dear Richard ,

At the outset let me introduce myself. My name is Prameesh Barlota and I represent Atos Origin.

Atos Origin, a leading global information technology services provider, helps clients turn their vision into results through the effective use of E-business solutions and IT. With sales of more than $ 2.5 billion in 2000, Atos Origin currently operates in more than 30 countries worldwide and has more then 27,000 employees. Its customers include ABN-Amro, Akzo-Nobel, Aramco, BNP Paribas, Cegetel, Vivendi, Credit Lyonnais, Euronext, Fiat, ICI, Lucent Technologies, Philip Morris, Philips, Unilever and Wolters Flower. For more information, visit the company's website at (<http://www.atosorigin.com>).

Having worked with many global customers, we are aware of the business issues faced by an organization like Enron Corp - from the software development and maintenance and product support point of view.

We at Atos Origin are structured as Competence Centers around products like SAP, Baan, JD Edwards, QAD, Siebel, Oracle, I2, which provides Implementation services, as well as support services.

We have global delivery model which combines local resources along with resources in cost effective economies around the world like India, China, Hungary etc. We have centres in CA, Dallas, Cincinnati in North America and Toronto in Canada. The man power in these centres are more than 2500 Software Professionals.

India based Global Software Engineering facility provides full range of IT services encompassing entire lifecycle. This mechanism, called Software Factory, allows us to build a full service delivery compatible with your technical, functional and cultural needs.

The mechanism of the "Software Factory" can offer the following benefits to Enron Corp : -Free - up critical internal resources for strategic projects -Visible, predictable and controlled life cycle costs and risk management -Guaranteed quality, efficiency and standardization of the development process (ISO & CMM Level 5). -Pre-agreed deliverables and service levels, measured performance using balanced scorecard. -Creative business models and contracts, covering various risks and performance sharing based service level agreements. -Minimize fixed costs / investment. Reduce development and life-cycle costs.

We expect to offer at least 30% cost savings (over using local US resources) by using our Global Software Engineering Factory. I can provide you concrete data regarding the benefits that our customers have got by working with our Software Factory.

Atos Origin would be able to set up a custom-built service delivery mechanism to extend your own software capabilities: right from maintenance and support of legacy applications to development of new web applications.

I would be glad to visit your offices to meet you to present & discuss this value proposition further.

Please do let me know suitable date for appointment.

Kind regards.
