Raj and Kristin:

Sorry for the delay in sending you the list. Traveling between New York and Houston sometimes takes away valuable working hours. As discussed in the meeting, the attached list is very preliminary and is an on-going working document. Forms A, B and C are provided to you to illustrate the type of information we would like to capture upon detailed analysis of the trading positions and the associated market values. At this juncture, please do not complete any of these forms until we have further discussions.

Regards, Cindy

Kam,

Am I to assume that at the FT position etc. are either captured in the books listed in excel sheet or the bankruptcy books. Just trying to get a hold of our positions.

Thanks

Also, who will be handling and could provide these ID for the further months.

Thanks

I am following up to see where we stand on the risk books for December. My understanding is that we will have at least 3 categories: legally terminated, not performing but not terminated, and still performing.

The deals that are still performing should have liquidations, etc. "as normal" - the remainder will be "frozen" until an amount is settled with the counterparty.

I am inheriting the MTM group and am trying to get as much done before we split with the people going to NETCO, so if you can give me the status and ETA if the books are not done I would greatly appreciate it.

thanks Lisa

Suzanne,

I was wondering if you had a chance to research the below note. Furthermore, please note the updated file attached. There are no changes volumetrically from the last file, but there are some price differences. Basically, Coral has taken these deficiency charges in their final settlement with Nov-01 prod. So, the need is to verify the correctness of their claim to these charges. Please advise on what you might know about this from a scheduling point of view when possible.

Kam,

We talked briefly about this before the holidays. The price problem we discusses has been cleared up by Coral. However, I assume that you need to be in the loop to also verify the overall deficiency charges and ultimately approve the creation of demand charges on the appropriate deals. Please let me know where you stand on this or what might be my next steps in cleaning this up.

Suzanne,

Here is the spreadsheet that we discussed earlier today. The worksheet of concern is titled "Sched". Each deal is listed by group. That is to say that they are not listed by day, but the days in question are mentioned for each group. Furthermore, the volumes on the left of each group are from Coral's data, whereas the right side contains ENA data or my calculations. Please prioritize these as you can with the expectation that I might be able to work on this upon my return from vacation on Jan 2.

Yes. Essentially, their claim is that we were to keep whole the deals in question. That is why I got Suzanne involved. From a big picture standpoint - Coral has supposedly taken this charge in their termination calculations. However, I have yet to see any cash or notice to actually pay this to them in cash. So, it is really a matter of bookkeeping. In the mean time, I am trying to track down their termination calculations and their relation to this item.

Scott,

Just so I understand correctly, for the dollars in green, we are to pay Coral this amount as demand charges?
