Communication to Employees on Assignment

Sender	announcements.enron@enron.com
Recipients	[]
File	richy-c/administrivia/4.

In light of the recent events, we have taken the following precautionary steps to ensure your needs are met:

RELOCATION If you need to relocate to your point of origin, we have made arrangements with Prudential Relocation to handle such items as airline ticket reimbursements, surface shipments, etc., depending upon your assignment terms. At the time of your relocation you MUST first contact Prudential Relocation as follows:

Brooke Breese International Mobility Consultant Prudential Relocation 105 Decker Drive 11th Floor, Crestview Irving, Texas 75062-2211 Direct: 972-657-6414 Toll Free: 1-800-241-6529, ext. 76414 Fax: 972-657-5980
brooke_breese@afcc.com

For those employees calling from outside the United States, a toll free call can be made by following the instructions contained on the following AT&T web site and using our (800) 241-6529 number:

<http://www.att/tollfree/international/dialguide>.

Under the terms of our arrangement, ALL SURFACE/AIR SHIPMENTS MUST BE HANDLED BY PRUDENTIAL RELOCATION in order for these costs to be covered by Enron. Additional details will be forthcoming from Prudential Relocation.

TAX PREPARATION We have also made arrangements with PricewaterhouseCoopers for the preparation of 2001 US and foreign tax returns, if applicable. Eligible employees will be contacted by PwC in early 2002.

TAX EQUALIZATION For those employees eligible for tax equalization, we have looked at each employee on a case-by-case basis. We have made every effort to ensure estimated US and foreign taxes are current. Please contact myself or Michael B Jones at 713.345.5859 with any tax related questions.

File	richy-c/inbox/5.

Please review with regards to changes in MOCK test plans tomorrow for processing ETX deals:

Location: We are moving the location from the 25th floor labs to ECS 05442 -> ECS 05442 (near Dermott color printer sign; center of room -> We will have 8 computers. Faster response time with technical staff. We prefer if you can test at the location above. If you are working from your office location, please contact the bridgeline to check in and report progress.

Timeframe: Moving it up, starting at 9am, and completion at 3pm

Bridgeline will be up for issues. -> Bridge line open - 800-711-8000, code #3454709

Results from Wednesday's review meeting of testing data: 1) The counterparty/ pipeline list is updated as discussed (attached). Contracts will be created for the pipelines. 2) We will provide EOL (ETX) the counterparty data desired, and work with them to ensure it's created. -> ETX will also provide us id's to create data as needed. 3) Matt Pena is working to create forward prices for March 2002 4) ETX will create for GasDaily current/ future months

Please participate for your planned tasks (attached), and please be available for questions/ issues as needed!

Thanks in advance for your help!

File	richey-c/alberta/2.

I just wanted to put some of the final comments in writing, so if we pick this up again I'll know what the major remaining issues are.

1. Is it appropriate to use 'average' hydrology for 2001, given snowpack conditions? 2. Revisit Ft. Nelson and Joffre assumptions using current output data. 3. Revisit AS derates in light of recent activity. 4. May need to recalculate BC export analysis given finer definition of 'on peak' to include Sat. 5. Sask imports more price sensitive than assumed - not always 150 MW into Alberta. 6. Close the loop on Fig 3 and major price movements (dec-01 to jan-02, also late 04) 7. BC export capacity will increase with IBOC plants on-line. Should increase capacity in model. Part of broader intertie sensitivity?

If you have any other comments or questions, please feel free to call me.

Best regards,

Kevin Wellenius

Hi all, wanna spend the winter leading eco-tours in the yucatan? check this out.

Background CESiaK is located on the Caribbean Coast of Mexico, near the Mayan Ruins of Tulum, south of Cancun. Still under development, the center is a small ecotourism and education center that will serve as a model for sustainable development in sensitive tropical ecosystems. The revenue generated through tours and various on-site activities is used to fund conservation and education programs within the Sian Ka'an Biosphere Reserve. The Center operates using ecologically responsible technologies, including systems for wetland waste management, rainwater collection, and solar and wind energy generation. It also focuses on community development, educational outreach programs, turtle conservation programs, and biological research, including propagation and revegetation of native plants. CESiaK provides a model for other sustainable development projects as well as an informational resource for the Sian Ka'an Biosphere Reserve.

Eco-Tourism Guide Position At CESiaK we currently offer an all-day, educational, sight-seeing boat tour through the Sian Ka'an Biosphere Reserve and a shorter sunset tour emphasizing bird-watching.

Highlights of the Tour include: ? Following the Mayan trade route used 1200 years ago ? Seeing abundant flora and fauna unique to Sian Ka'an ? Visiting unexcavated Mayan ruins hidden within the Reserve ? Floating down a freshwater river and swimming in natural sink-holes ? Learning the natural and Mayan history of the Reserve with experienced guides

The primary responsibility of the tour guide is to lead these tours and educate tourists about the unique diversity of ecosystems, flora, and fauna found within the Reserve. Other responsibilities include preparing food coolers for the tours, communicating problems with tour equipment, and driving and maintaining the two tour vans. Depending on qualifications and interest, the guide would also work with other staff members to carry out other programs undertaken by CESiaK.

Qualifications The ideal candidate would have an undergraduate or graduate degree in biology or environmental science, as well as an interest and understanding of general socio-economic issues of Latin America, including Mayan culture and history. However, all candidates with a strong interest in learning will certainly be considered. Once hired, the guide will be thoroughly trained to lead the tours. Because in many senses the tour guide is the face of the organization, it is crucial to have proven exemplary communication skills, command of the Spanish language, an independent motivation to self-manage the broad responsibilities of the tours, and a dedication to conservation.

I am working with Paul again on the Spanish desk along with Kristian and things are a little interesting in the market.

Been limited to plugging things together with Excel and not much database creativity, more analysis, which is good but a bit limiting at times with the internal Police preventing flexibility !

Are you in the office today, I have a question for you ?

[R] 1.3.1/1.4.1 Windows binary incompatibilities?

Sender	ben@zoo.ufl.edu
Recipients	[r-help@stat.math.ethz.ch]
File	richey-c/deleted_items/27.

I should probably have been able to figure this out, but ...

I have a package with some C code in it that I've been cross-building on my Linux machine to run under Windows. I had it working under 1.3.1, but it seems to have stopped with 1.4.1. Building with a version of i386-mingw32msv-gcc recently downloaded from Brian Ripley's Rtools page (--version 2.95.2), under 1.4.1 on Linux, it works under 1.3.1 but fails under 1.4.1. (The new version of i386-gcc I just downloaded dates back to 3 Sep 2000 according to the Page Info. The previous version I was using (which dated to 27 Apr 2000) and the new version give the same --version information.) The "Version" tab on the DLL does correctly indicate it was built for 1.4.1.

Am I missing something stupid? The Rtools page says the most current version of mingw is based on gcc 2.95.3; does the cross-compiler need to be updated? (I'm not eager to, but I could try to assemble the pieces and compile from source if I had to ...)

I did find some information on cross-compiling at the bottom of the MinGW FAQ list, I may pursue this if no-one has any brilliant ideas ... (how many people are actually doing Linux/Windows cross-compiling?)

thanks, Ben Bolker

JSS, which is at <http://www.jstatsoft.org>, publishes statistical software with manuals, as well as papers describing, comparing, and evaluating statistical software. Abstracts of all contributions accepted in JSS are published in printed form in JCGS.

Although we publish software written in any language, we especially welcome software written in R. The general idea is that packages written in R can be documented in both "R News" and in JSS, but that generally the description in JSS will be more extensive and more seriously peer-reviewed. Everybody in the R community is encouraged to submit their R products to JSS, we even welcome "code snippet" type of contributions (which will go into a separate section of the journal).

Volume 7, 2002, consists so far of the following three issues issue 1: S. Weisberg Dimension reduction regression in R.

issue 2: A. Zeileis, F. Leisch, and K. Hornik strucchange: an R package for testing for structural change in linear regression models issue 3: G. Marsaglia and W.W. Tsang Some difficult-to-pass tests of randomness.

um, yeah, i was a bit surprised when you mentioned the 8 year statistic! but i'm not sure what relevance that really has. it's too bad things are rocky between you and steve, it seems like you've been together forever. it was a crazy night and i don't know what else to say, hopefully we will stay in touch better as a result? it's funny to think that i've known you half of my life at this point. of course, however you want to handle it is fine by me. well, if you get this while you are in portland or sf, give me a buzz and i'll tell you what i can, otherwise, call or write and let's stay in touch. good luck shopping for programs.

Hey Cooper, Well, I don't know if you remember, but I'm heading out to Portland for an interview. Prob little to no chance I'll end up there, but what the hell, I've never been and it can't hurt to visit. I remember you saying that you knew Brinda's email. Do you think you could send it to me? I'll be there the 14th.

Otherwise, don't really know what to say. I'm pretty much still reeling from what happened. I meant it when I said that nothing like this has happened in the last 8 years. Unfortunately, my future with Steve is looking a little rocky right now, but I still don't know what my motivation was (drunkenness never an excuse...) and I've been pretty upset. I haven't seen Steve yet, and to be honest I don't think now is the time to bring this sort of thing up to him. I decide where I will move in feb, and I think it's best if steve and I go our own ways amicably, without this mess (yes, feeble excuse).

Anyway, don't mean to bring up all this crap, b/c it's not yours, but we've been friends for a long time and I respect you and like you, and I really don't want you to think that this is a frequent occurence. I do wish I was a little more sober, not b/c it would've changed much, but I think it might've been better all around.

So, any advice on Portland or SF would be appreciated (one night in each). Call 646 342 3507 or email.

Just an FYI, if you want to alter procedures in production already, you can use the command Alter Procedure, instead of Create Procedure. Everything else would be as you have it in your scripts. All it does is change the code of the procedure without touching dependencies or permissions. I'll change that in these so that you don't have to.

Hi Cooper, Spaces are going fast but if you get a check in soon, you can reserve a spot! Send $500 deposit to Piedmont Yoga Studio, P.O. Box 11458, Oakland, CA 94611. Do you have a brochure to fill out a registration form? If not, just make sure I have your address and phone number. I will send you a brochure later! Hope you come along! Lisa

Lisa,

I will send a check today, but I'm in Canada and it may take a few days to get down there - can you reserve a spot for me contingent upon getting a check this week? I've tried (unsuccessfully) to reserve a spot on this retreat for the last two years!

I'm running R (latest) on linux, using gnome. I was wondering how export the plots to an image file of sort sort. I can't find anything obvious in the documentation.

Finally one I can answer! (Thanks to those pointing out to me the various docs in the "user contributed" section. I'm on my way to knowing how to use R & maybe even learning the statistics that didn't quite soak in during my two stats classes).

Anyway, the short answer: "?Devices"

Choose a device, turn it on with a call like "png()", issue your graphics commands & be sure to issue the dev.off() command when you're done. If you don't, your graphics file won't be complete (or might be empty).

I hope this helps.

If you're part of the CalData_GasFund NT group, you will have full access to Alberta Gas.

As for AlbertaPower, you have full access to the dev database, and the same access as Colin has for the Prod database.

For getting server access on OLAP, you'll have to talk to Greg, I believe.

That reminds me, how did your test of SQL Server 2000 OLAP go?

Chris,

I need to get whatever access Greg and Colin had to AlbertaPower and AlbertaGas databases on dev and prod.

I may already have it, but I'm not sure, especially about the AlbertaGas database.

basically, their accounts have been cleared from the network and I need to run things under my own account, rather than theirs.

Also, on dev db, I need to admin rights as Colin had these to do some OLAP stuff. I'm guessing you are not the person to talk to about this?

Hey Cooper,

I would like to get your opinion and approval on a couple of things:

1) We'd like to get a development IIS server running, and so would also like to move your development from NETCo's only production IIS server, to this new server. I believe Greg is setting this up shortly.

2) Since the PowerFS1 server is now the production web server for all of NETCo, we'd like to move the IIS administration duties to the IT team, which would most likely mean to me. (I'm assuming you have these duties right now? If not, maybe you could point me in the right direction)

3) Also because of that, we need to move at least one web application on to PowerFS1.(Presenter is the one NETCo web app moving over that is in Production. Origman will be there shortly as well.) Since Pavel used MSXML3 with SP1 and would need it on the box, I was wondering what version are you running? (He tells me that multiple versions can be run at the same time, as they are separately named libraries and files).

Thanks for your time.

Let me know what you think about all of this,

Good Morning, We wanted to send out some clarification, minor changes, and to thank you again for your participation in the UBS Warburg Energy Pilot Migration, your feedback will greatly assist us in making the transition to the new environment as effective as possible. Unfortunately we are still awaiting information from our Corporate Legal staff regarding legally acceptable and appropriate procedures for moving data between the Estate (i.e. current Enron) data shares and UBS Warburg Energy data shares. For this reason you are not authorized to copy any data from your Estate data shares (your Z:\ drive) following your migration until the formal communication from Legal has been communicated and a procedure for this has been provided. Until the formal procedure has been received from Legal and distributed to users, the O:\Estate\O drive, O:\Estate\M drive, P:\Estate\P drive (Portland users) and P:\Estate\I drive (Calgary users) data will not be available to migrated users. We do expect this policy to be in place some time day or this weekend, which will alleviate these restrictions. Please be aware that we may be advised to delete any data present on your new H:\ drives after the formal notification from Legal has been distributed. We greatly apologize for the lack of forewarning regarding this information and apologize for any inconvenience caused. Please contact 3-1411 if any of this information is unclear. Thank you for your continued participation in the Migration effort.

Welcome to the UBS Warburg Energy (UBSWE) Data Migration Pilot! We appreciate your acceptance of our request to be a member of the pilot and want to make you aware of some initial changes that will be in effect when you log into the new environment.

You will need to log off of your computer, and back in, to receive the changes that have been made.

When you logon to your computer, you will use your Enron NT account and password, you will immediately be prompted to change your password (following Enron "password rules")

Once you've changed your password and logged off again you will see the UBSWE splash screen which contains the legal disclaimer for using an UBSWE system (this is similar to the Enron splash screen).

What won't "change"? Your desktop will look very much the same as it always has Your email will not be affected

What will "change"? Your drive mappings to your home and common drives will have changed when you're in the new environment. This will be done automatically, but you should be aware of the following:

When you're in the new environment your H:\ drive will contain some UBSWE data, but will not contain your personal data (don't worry!) you will find the contents of your Estate H:\ drive in your UBSWE Z:\ drive. When you are in the new environment your O:\ drive will contain some UBSWE data AND it will contain a directory named M:\Estate and O:\estate which contains links back to all of your M:\ and O:\ drive data through the M:\ and O:\ Drive folders When you are in the new environment your P:\ drive (new local common directory) will contain some USBWE data AND it will contain a directory named P:\Estate which contains a link back to all of your legacy local common (i:\ drive for Calgary users) data through the designated folders. When you are in the new environment you WILL have access to the applications that you use but these are UBSWE, but you WILL NOT have access back to the Estate applications.

If you need access to the Estate applications, please contact your local IT support. They will have an "est_" account, with your legacy access rights. Please keep in mind that your "est_" account will only be valid until UBSWE Day 1, and you will have to request an extension of these rights should you need them beyond that date.

If you have any questions, please contact your local IT support team.

If you have specific questions regarding the pilot, please contact me at the numbers listed below.

Again, we appreciate your assistance in making the UBSWE transition a success!

Who controls, develops and designs the activeX control? If the control is developed in house the component should follow and proper review/release process and then signed for production. If this control is developed by an outside source, what is the functionality of the object? what processes were taken to ensure the assurance of "fair-play" from a security risk evaluation point on this version and all potential upgrade versions? And what relationship do we have with them to inquire about a signed version of their component?

Sorry for the inconvenience of these queries, and I am sorry that these questions have to come from a desktop architect. But to maintain tight security to ensure the stability for Enrons network, I think that these are important issues.
