Meeting in Louisville...

Jeffrey-

It was good to visit with you this past weekend in Louisville. As we briefly discussed, I will be living in Chicago July 30 and would love an opportunity to work for Enron in the Chicago office. In part of my due diligence, I have found that Enron has numerous aspects to it's company. Based on my past experience, a sales position would probably be most fitting especially in the area of IT sales, broadband, and/or internet. I was given Jennifer Cronin's name (IT recruiter-713-345-8267) and Kevin Ormston (Broadband recruiter- 713-853-6418) from Paul Koontz who works with EBS in Chicago (312-583-1676). I spoke with Jennifer but she was unaware of any positions for EBS in Chicago, although she did say she would check with her VP. We agreed that most of the opportunities for sales forces on the web-site appear to be in the Houston area. Hopefully there may be another way I could be part of Enron via a Chicago office or as part of a sales team that would sell either IT services/ bandwidth to new customers, or even service existing companies like Simon Property Group via Enron's Intelligent Network on a national or international level.

In addition to the sales opportunity, I did see an Associates program available for certain people through Enron that appears to be two, one-year training programs that aids those employers in learning from the bottom up, focusing on the business side of Enron.

Jeffrey, attached please find my resume (a hard copy will be easily furnished if requested) and again, I would like to reiterate my willingness to work both very hard and smart, in an attempt to become an employer with Enron, in Chicago.

Any help or advice would be greatly appreciated,

Thank You,

Jeffrey Goldberg

OVERVIEW

In the current environment of volatile energy prices and deregulation, it has become increasingly more important for the electricity industry to learn how to manage price risk. EUCI presents two events formatted for the beginner to the expert in price risk management. The first Workshop is designed for the beginner with no prior experience in risk management and introduces the basic vocabulary and concepts in a concise and easily understandable format which forms the foundation for the more advanced concepts applied in the second event (Conference).

Transmission Expansion and Systems in Transition Conference Feb. 5-8, 2002, Miami, Florida OVERVIEW

This conference will examine the business and regulatory challenges to U.S. electric systems in transition in effectively expanding transmission capacity to meet new demands in the larger and more competitive regional markets emerging under FERC's RTO initiatives. The conference will review the parameters of these challenges and possible solutions to them. It will examine technology options and new business models for transmission expansion. It will analyze emerging proposals for effective transmission planning and pricing, including market-based pricing alternatives to FERC's traditional pricing methods. The conference will also discuss what it will take in legislative action and regulatory initiative to achieve an efficient regime for ensuring that the nation has a reliable grid and regional trading system.

The brochure for the Conference and associated Workshops can be obtained by clicking on the link below:http://www.euci.com/pdf/trans_expn.pdf

We are pleased to announce two new conferences to be held in Atlanta, GA in March 2002. The conferences and their links are as follows

I received the message below from you, forwarded from Steve Kean several weeks ago asking if we wanted to send anyone to speak at this conference, which John Palmisano previously spoke at.

They have suggested that Jeff speak on the topic of "Joint Implementation (JI) and Clean Development Mechanism (CDM) as a business opportunity." While Palmisano was focused on these issues in the past, it seems to me that the current Enron strategy does not really include pursuing "business opportunities" related to these mechanisms, as they involve investment of capital in power projects in developing countries. I don't think it would be a good fit for us at all right now.

While emissions traders in EGM are looking at the Kyoto process and the potential for global carbon trading, we are still a long way from there being any viable trading market whatsoever. EES is interested in following the JI and CDM issues for potential opportunities related to energy efficiency. Our role has been to participate in the process and monitor the development of these issues and see if there are effects on our markets or opportunities. I may have someone attend or may see if someone in Mark Schroeder's group in London can attend, but I would not recommend our speaking at this time.

Please let me know if you have any questions,

Thanks again for all of your help today. It was a great meeting!

I forgot to tell you as we were walking out. The price for the Bel Geddes Skyscraper Cocktail service is $7500. Based on my preliminary price checks (so far) it seems fair and certainly less than the boys would charge. What do you think? I am of half a mind to call the boys and find out what they would be asking but I think that it would tip our hand....

Dear friends,

We have (hastily) scheduled our first executive committee meeting of the new fiscal year for THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 6 AT 4:00 AT THE MUSEUM.

Please forgive this short notice which is necessary as it became clear that Mrs. Ballard, Chair, would be out of town for much of the month of September and we need to have an executive committee meeting in advance of the September 10 meeting of the Board of Trustees.

At the Thursday meeting, we'll create a schedule for executive committee meetings for the year, as well as establish a time and place for the meetings which is mutually convenient.

Last year, the committee met once a month on Wednesdays at the Bayou Club which proved to work well for everyone.

Please let Cheryl know if you will be able to attend Thursday's meeting. You may reach her at 713 284 8253 or by email to bliss@camh.org.

Thanks and I hope to see you Thursday.

It was nice talking last night. Despite the fact that Jennifer told you you're cranky a lot, you sound like you're doing much better than you were a few months ago. Hope that's the case.

I'd be happy to touch base with Dan/Elizabeth while they're in Florida or take a stroll down Worth Ave. (<-) with them, but I'm not sure at this point when I'll have "designated free time" and I suspect they'll want to spend time alone. You can tell them I'm staying at The Breakers from 5/3 to 5/6.

I was wondering if you might be able to help me. I need to finish strong this year. I am attempting to reach the goal of $336,000 in clothing sales by the end of the year. Obviously, no single client will be able to help me do this. So I was wondering if you might be able to help me out by giving me the names of some qualified gentlemen or ladies that might be interested in the type of service we offer.

Some things to consider:

We offer ready-made (off the rack) clothing as well as custom. We offer all types of men's clothing including casual.

If you know of some mid to upper level executive women, they may have an interest as well.

Some memory joggers:

Who is the best dressed man or woman you know? Who do you know that likes nice cars? Who do you know that owns their own company? Who do you know that is successful in sales? Who do you know that wears an expensive watch? Who do you know that owns their own airplane? Who do you know that might have a hard time fitting in typical clothing?

Thanks for your help!

Dear Mr. Shankman,

At the suggestion of my colleagues Michael Baker & Donna Armand, I am just dropping you this email to introduce myself -- the Penn development officer who covers the world! I am not sure I can benefit you -- although particularly in Asia I do know an awful lot of people -- perhaps as much as you can benefit me -- for the same reason.

And there may be some Penn initiatives around the world -- such as the Center for the Advanced Study of India, about which you do know -- that you might like to be aware of -- a major new collaboration in the making in the Life Sciences with Singapore, for instance.... you never know when the network will help.

I'd certainly welcome knowing more about what you do as well. Totally by coincidence I am coming to Houston Sunday to see an alumna who is in poor health. I am sorry that it is over Yom Kippur -- otherwise, I would have offered you a meal. Perhaps we can do it another time, Philadelphia, Houston, or Hong Kong!

Thanks for all you do for Penn.

Jeff and Kath:

Well, I did not fair too well this weekend in regard to fundraising for the desk. Here is the report:

Gail and Louis Adler declined saying that they loved the desk, think it is important for the museum etc. but that they did not want to be part of a group. They said that if something arose in the fututure that was more reasonable and that they could do alone that they might be interested in helping.

Cyvia and Melvyn Wolff also declined. Cyvia said that they were quite torn because it made sense due to their furniture connections and how important the desk is but ultimately they want their fund to grow into something and if they dedicate it to the desk there will be nothing left.

I am still trying to reach Nina and Michael.

Margaret Skidmore is meeting with Susan Borches from Shell on the 28th so we may get a sense there. Maybe we should coordinate a pitch with Margaret when she gets back. Perhaps a call to Mr. Miller might be a good idea (?).

That is all for now. If you have any reports or any new suggestions, please let me know.

Thanks, cindi

Hi Phil, It was nice meeting you at Larry's bar mitzvah anniversary at the Temple a few weeks ago. I was hoping you could help me with one more thing. I've spoken with Mr Kennedy (I think) from bank of Lousiville, and I was a little confused after I hung up the phone. As you know the 2 gifts of $50,000 each are for separate awards, etc. Does Bank of Louisville know this? Or is it kept track of differently through the Temple. I ask because when I told him both "scholarships" or funds were open to future additions via donations to them from whomever, he wasn't sure what I was talking about. Should I make out 2 checks for $50k each payable to the Temple of Bank of Louisville? Or 1 check for the total? Any help would be appreciated as I'm anxious to get these open for future contributions.

Best regards,

Jeff

Performance-Based Ratemaking Conference December 5-7, 2001, Denver, CO OVERVIEW

Performance Based Ratemaking (PBR) is emerging as a key element of the restructuring of the electric utility industry. For PBR to be effective it must be designed carefully and uniquely for each utility so as to align the interests of the utility, the shareholders and the customers and also to make sure that PBR is successful in achieving efficiency and service quality.

EUCI has put together a covey of expert speakers to review and address the latest PBR developments and applications. Join us in Denver and get the latest state-of-the-art information and insights you will need to develop an effective PBR strategy for your company.

Electric Power Market Performance Conference December 12-14, 2001, Denver, CO OVERVIEW

Each year there is additional opportunity to draw lessons regarding electricity market structure and design from actual market performance. These lessons are leading to a convergence in market design, at least in the Eastern Interconnection and ERCOT. One focus of this conference will be on the lessons to be drawn from the experience of the new ERCOT markets, the continuing market design problems in California, and the difficulties in developing and implementing a market based congestion management system in the midwest.

A second focus of this conference will be on the existing markets in PJM and New York, which have now moved beyond managing their internal markets and are being pushed by market participants and regulatory agencies to better address inter-RTO coordination and develop market based incentive systems for transmission expansion.

Finally, the conference will highlight one of the important, but little noticed successes of the Eastern ISOs, which is the explosive growth in the PJM and New York financial rights auctions.

Electric Risk Management 101 Workshop And Portfolio Optimization for Electric Utilities Conference January 22-25, 2001, New York City, NY OVERVIEW

In the current environment of volatile energy prices and deregulation, it has become increasingly more important for the electricity industry to learn how to manage price risk. EUCI presents two events formatted for the beginner to the expert in price risk management. The first Workshop is designed for the beginner with no prior experience in risk management and introduces the basic vocabulary and concepts in a concise and easily understandable format which forms the foundation for the more advanced concepts applied in the second event (Conference).

The website links for these events are provided below: Electricity Risk Management 101 Workshop, Jan. 22-23, 2002, New York City, NY <http://www.euci.com/wrkshpoverview.asp?ConfID=13&WrkshpID=8> Portfolio Optimization for Electric Utilities Conference, Jan. 24-25, 2002, New York City, NY <http://www.euci.com/confoverview.asp?ConfID=13>

This conference will examine the business and regulatory challenges to U.S. electric systems in transition in effectively expanding transmission capacity to meet new demands in the larger and more competitive regional markets emerging under FERC's RTO initiatives. The conference will review the parameters of these challenges and possible solutions to them. It will examine technology options and new business models for transmission expansion. It will analyze emerging proposals for effective transmission planning and pricing, including market-based pricing alternatives to FERC's traditional pricing methods. The conference will also discuss what it will take in legislative action and regulatory initiative to achieve an efficient regime for ensuring that the nation has a reliable grid and regional trading system.

As discussed in the last executive committee meeting, I am preparing a list of individuals for Fred Schroeder to "interview" when they are here to work with us in November. I'd like to send them 10 to 15 possibilities as they can see a good number over the time they're here, and those they don't catch now can be contacted for a later trip. Fred suggested we look at this as a "first wave" of some people who know us well; more interviews with those at a greater distance will come later.

Yesterday we tried pushing the NOxTech performance for the first time on the 30 MW boiler at Mitsui Babcock's Technology Centre. We achieved Approximately 0.09 lb/mmBtu at less than 2 ppm ammonia slip, and approximately 0.07 lb/mmBtu at less than 5 ppm ammonia slip.

We have indications that the kinetic limit for this process is lower than we first guessed, and probably extends down to 21 ppm NOx outlet or approximately 0.03 lb/mmBtu. This all means that we are able to compete commercially with SCR systems on efficiency and cost, and meet all prospective NOx control regulations except in the very worst ozone non-attainment areas.

We are continuing testing to further evaluate the control system for the chemical injection grid. Once that is completed, we will reposition the grid to study the effectiveness of injecting through the tubebanks, without incurring the expense of opening a dedicated cavity. I will be returning as planned on Wednesday.

Congratulations team, you've just made the world a safer place for air-breathing mammals everywhere!!! Vince

As for Japan opportunities, is there a way to get Tess Dyar plugged into those? She just started (from Wharton) after spending nearly 10 years at Goldman in Japan. I asked Tess about Japan while we were up at Wharton and she wanted to try to remain under the radar screen as far as her Japanese expertise because she was trying to get some personal issues resolved. She also wanted to stick it out in the Steel Group until some of the uncertainty was resolved.

I agree that we should put Chris on the resume list. I am very hesitant to guarantee or even indicate where people would go once they get to Enron during the interview process. I know that last year we were looking for people who were interested in Asian opportunities (especially Korea and China), yet by the time these folks started we no longer had opportunities available there, leading to a lot of disappointment and disenchantment with Enron. Jeff, how likely is it that we will still have a strong need for people in Japan next August?

Dear Jeff,

I left a message on your machine, but I just wanted to say again how much your gift to The Temple means to me, personally. As the current President, one of my big agendas is youth and camping and you have certainly given that a major shot in the arm. We have a fabulous new Youth and Camp Committee Chair in Chris Brice and I do hope that we can all get together when you are here next week. Chris and I met for over an hour just last week to discuss a plan of action to get more kids involved. I thought perhaps from your history of youth group involvement you might be interested in reading my first bulletin article, so I will copy and paste it to the bottom of this email. My son was just elected Programming Vice President of our Youth Group and he will go on the NFTY Exodus trip to Israel next summer. All 3 of my boys are involved in UAHC camps. I believe that that is the single most important thing you can do to instill a love of Judaism in kids today. Well, don't get me started. You see, you have really hit my button on this.

Thank you for your kindness and your vision. May this New Year bring you all things good.....

Warm personal regards, Julie Benson 3900 Woodstone Ridge Way Louisville, Ky. 40241 502-228-4106 Why do I want to be President?

It is indeed an honor and a pleasure to have become the 16th President of Congregation Adath Israel Brith Sholom. Having already spent 6 years on the Operating Committee, I've been preparing for a long time. It's very interesting to me that as soon as it became apparent that I was in line for this position, the same question kept coming up from many members, including some of my closest friends. "Why do you want to be President of The Temple?" was asked of me over and over again, especially during this last year. It was always asked with kindness, but extreme curiosity, so I thought that I would take the opportunity of my first bulletin article to give the entire congregation my answer.

I grew up in New Orleans at Touro Synagogue and at 15 years old became very involved in my Temple Youth Group (TYG). I was an active member of SoFTY (Southern Federation of Temple Youth) and spent 2 summers at Kutz Camp Institute (the national Reform high school camp) in Warwick, New York. I taught our Sunday School music and Israeli dance program and just generally embraced the Reform Movement. I spent 5 summers on the staff of the Henry S. Jacobs Camp Institute in Utica, Mississippi. (Sister camp to the Myron S. Goldman Union Camp) Through all of this time, I made life long friends and contacts that are now leaders in their Reform Congregations around this country, as well as UAHC staff members. Growing up active in the Reform Movement, embracing it as a teenager, with my parents' support, has modeled my religious life and I guess that there was no other choice for me, but to do this.

There are still other reasons for my taking on this responsibility. I've heard so many times over this past year, "But what about your family? You'll be so busy!" It all comes down to the old saying, "If not now, when?" and I have to add, "If not me, who?" If I, Julie Benson, don't take the responsibility to help in a leadership capacity of my Temple, then who else shall I count on? Can I ask others to do a job that I am not willing to do myself?

My children are another reason why I do this. Perhaps, from my example, they will someday feel a sense of obligation to their Jewish community. I would like to think that one day my grandchildren will look upon my picture hanging on the wall of The Temple and appreciate the position that I took to keep their Temple thriving. It's a small, but important job in the scheme of our Jewish world, and I feel very good knowing that I will do my part, to the best of my ability and encourage others to do so as well.

The rewards are great. It's the least that I can do and I look forward to much volunteer involvement over the next two years.

I now ask all of you to get involved on a committee here at Temple. The list is in this bulletin. Call the chair of a committee that interests you and say, "Count me in!" You'll soon see that rolling up your sleeves feels really good. Together, as a community, we can accomplish great things. As a congregation supporting each other, we will thrive. Let us share our heritage in every way possible. Through our combined efforts we will make The Temple stronger and in the process, I promise that we will also have great fun! Thank you for your confidence and for allowing me this opportunity to serve you, my Temple family.....

B'shalom,

Julie

Something else you may consider as a topic for our April/May meeting: have you guys looked at outsourcing your entire energy needs (gas and power in particular). We have been very successful in helping customers save quite a bit of money on their energy expense, and as you see in today's power and gas markets, that can be extremely valuable...

Good morning Jeff/Wayne

The Enron International coal group are having major issues with our key Colombian coal supplier, Drummond (us based company)- fax attached. George has asked me to send this to you.

Situation

They supply us on a regular basis one cape and three panamax's of coal a month with the contract finishing by July 2002. Cost of the coal for the cape is 28.00 usd per metric tonne basis 11,300 btu/lb gar and the cost of the panamax's is 28.25 usd per metric tonne basis 11,350 btu/lb gar. (gar means gross as received).

In the contract we have 15 days payment terms such that we pay for the coal 15 days after completion of loading of the vessel. Unfortunately they are refusing to load any vessels at present unless we load cash up front. They will compensate us for the early payment in reduced price however I realise this is scant consolation. In most circumstance We would sue these guys however the implications associated with not loading the coal and going to court are the following= coal purchase price 28.00 usd per mt Lump sum cash required 4.424 mill usd. freight costs 3.75 usd per mt sales price 37.45 usd per mt deal cash flow 5.70 usd per mt

tonnage 158,000 metric tonnes

900,600 usd

This deal in typical circumstances is credit enhancing. The customer pays in 11 days and we only payout in 15 days. If we don't load the vessel our customer will default, the market will know and Enron's franchise/credibility in the coal is gone. On the follow on vessels we should be having similar type cash flows.

We have the following vessels loading in the next two months.

Nov 20- 24 one cape 158,000 mt above vessel loading at present completing on the 24th Nov Nov 24- 26 one pmax 63,000 mt loading 24th Nov completing 26th Nov Nov 23- 31 one pmax 70,000 mt no eta 26 th nov completing 28th Nov Dec 3-12 one cape 148,000 mt Dec 14-23 one pmax 70,000 mt Dec 26- 4 jan pmax 63,000 mt Dec 26- 4 jan pmax 70,000 mt

Solution

What can we do - either raise an L/C or we pay cash up front (4.4 mill)- considering the present vessel is loading and the time it takes to raise an l/c then we think cash upfront for this one is going to be the only present solution. Naturally we are looking at other options which means that we don't have to send cash out of the door- one of the being selling them the freight and then them selling CIF - I will work this direct with their guys in London- but meanwhile I would appreciate you guys help in the interim time before George flies into Houston this morning to see what can be done internally to pay upfront on this first vessel at least.

many thanks in advance

Trip was great - did I really describe India as delightful?..perhaps "intriguing" might have been more appropriate. Hard to miss the headlines - are you involved at all? I'll try calling you shortly. I fly back to New York first thing tomorrow (I missed my flight - traffic on a holiday weekend here is the worst I have ever witnessed). Hopefully, we'll catch up later today.

So sorry not to have responded earlier ...it has been such a completely psychotic week for me. I have been in London and Stockholm this week - I don't think I slept more than 3 hours a night all week. I am on my way tomorrow to India (Bombay and Bangalore)...London on Thursday...and back to New York on Thursday night or Friday morning. Friday and Saturday (April 13 & 14) are fairly free for me - would Friday night work for you?

It will be difficult for me to reach you from India- given schedule and time difference, but I will be accessing email. I can be reached on a mobile number in Europe on today and on Thursday - ++44 7990 973 620. As of Friday - in New York, the best place to reach me is on - 1 917 862 6552. Mike attached is Mark Evans' resume. He worked at Duke and I believe he managed their NE gas book.

No special consideration needed. I just promised him that I would get it to someone in your group.

Thanks,

Jeff,

Hi there.....sounds like Penny has been equally emphatic on both sides about meeting...

So sorry not to have responded earlier ...it has been such a completely psychotic week for me. I have been in London and Stockholm this week - I don't think I slept more than 3 hours a night all week. I am on my way tomorrow to India (Bombay and Bangalore)...London on Thursday...and back to New York on Thursday night or Friday morning. Friday and Saturday (April 13 & 14) are fairly free for me - would Friday night work for you?

It will be difficult for me to reach you from India- given schedule and time difference, but I will be accessing email. I can be reached on a mobile number in Europe on today and on Thursday - ++44 7990 973 620. As of Friday - in New York, the best place to reach me is on - 1 917 862 6552. By the way, how is the Peninsula post-renovations? I liked it before the renovations - am sure its even more wonderful.

A FEW WORDS ON ENRON As detailed in past notes including our most recent "Progress, But Much More Work Ahead", we have been highly critical of Enron for some time. In fact, with the benefit of hindsight 20/20 vision, the reality is we should have downgraded our rating a long time ago. Looking ahead, despite the positive move forward in replacing its CFO, there are serious issues and questions remaining. These include those pertaining to: 1) multiple shareholder lawsuits from past management statements regarding the overall underlying performance of the company while there was insider selling; 2) the reality that - beyond potential conflicts of interest - the high profile partnerships in question helped to insulate ENE's earnings from substantial downward portfolio valuations; 3) additional - albeit smaller - charges are likely down the road as other assets are revalued; 4) the successful execution of pending material asset sales such as Portland General; 5) the leverage within its more traditional off-balance sheet vehicles that could ultimately wind up on its books and cause earnings dilution under the unlikely scenario that the company is to be downgraded three notches to below investment grade; and 6) the ability of management to regain credibility with the Street. On the other hand, counterparties continue to actively trade with Enron. It is still the market maker. In the event of a "push-comes-to-shove" liquidity crunch, we believe the company could generate substantial cash by selling a variety of other assets including its Pipelines segment. At a minimum, if ENE shares were to deteriorate much further, we would view it as a potential acquisition target for other substantially larger and better capitalized entities looking to immediately become a sizable player in the global unregulated wholesale / retail energy space. When all is said and done, to the best of our ability in distilling all of the facts and pushing aside the growing level of baseless arb-driven noise surrounding this complex situation, we believe the risk/reward dynamics in ENE shares have improved. That is, though there are no guarantees and headline volatility will be the norm for some time, we believe the odds of this company becoming completely illiquid are low; while the odds of it regaining some level of stature and/or returning an attractive return to shareholders from current levels over the next 12-18 months are medium-to-high. We also believe that the collateral damage to the rest of the space (such as Dynegy and El Paso) is overdone, providing an attractive buying opportunity. With nothing but our client's best interest in mind, we will continue to vigilantly monitor this situation. STOCKS RATED STRONG BUY El Paso Corporation Dynegy Inc. Cc: Robert Verratti Subject: Opt4 Discussion/demo

Hi Jeff. Thanks to Jenne for the introduction. Bob Verratti tells me that we are confirmed for a call and web-ex demo at 1:30 Pacific tomorrow, Wednesday, November 14. I will call you at (713) 853-1761 and the demo will be directed to your email address. We have had extensive discussions about the Opt4 platform with Greg Whalley, Greg Piper, Jay Webb and a number of others at Enron and I look forward to having the opportunity to demonstrate it for you. Although the Opt4 platform can be used for many purposes, its unique application is in the trading of customized (OTC style) derivatives for any underlying market. The platform itself allows an infinite amount of deal customization which we have chosen to constrain through the use of "smart templates" each of which reflects a structure recognized and traded on the OTC. Traders then specify all terms within the template and post bids, offers or RFQ's to the site. All activity on the site (both postings and trade match) are constrained by our "pre-permissioning" system which checks in real time the trade specific and portfolio VaR to assure head room limits would not be exceeded. We have spent a year building out with BOTCC the first ever clearing interface capable of handling this level of trade customization. All standard clearance and settlement services are available through our strategic partnership with BOTCC. The end result is a fully integrated solution bringing transparency and credit support to OTC markets, whether in emerging markets such as chemicals, weather, or steel, or in established commodity and financial markets. Our target customers fall into three categories: 1) established exchanges wanting to expand into customized trades linked to their existing product lines, 2) dealers or market makers seeking to automate and expand their phone business, 3) B2B's wanting to offer risk management products to support their cash market trading. The attached documents are quite high level but may help to get you oriented before our call tomorrow. They include a brief description of the Company, product summary, a synopsis of platform functionality and hosting services and a white paper on our proprietary permssioning and risk management systems. I'll look forward to speaking with you tomorrow. <<Trading Engine.pdf>> <<Hosting and Ops.pdf>> <<What is Opt4.pdf>> <<Risk White Paper.pdf>>
