Eurasia Group is pleased to announce a breakfast roundtable in the next in our Eurasia Forum series:

TURKEY'S POLITICAL STABILITY with TANSU CILLER, FORMER TURKISH PRIME MINISTER

Discussant: TBD

Chair: Ian Bremmer, President, Eurasia Group

DATE: Friday, 4 May 2001 TIME: 8:30am - 10:00am PLACE: Eurasia Group Executive Offices 461 Fifth Avenue, 14th Floor (enter on 40th Street) New York, NY 10017

A public row between the Turkish president and prime minister in mid-February sparked market turmoil that resulted in an overnight 30% devaluation in the lira and a crash of the IMF-backed stabilization program. These events led to the resignations of the central bank governor and treasury undersecretary and have tested the staying power of the country's three-party government coalition. In response to this instability, the Turkish government appointed former World Bank Vice President, Kemal Dervis, as the new Minister of Economics in hopes of resuscitating the country's fledgling economy.

Ciller was elected Prime Minister in June 1993; her True Path party led several coalition governments until 1996. After losing her seat in 1996, her party formed a coalition with the center-right Motherland Party which was followed by an alliance with the conservative far-right Welfare Party. The later move resulted in heightened tension between True Path and the military and business establishment. In the current financial turmoil, Ms. Ciller has attempted to reposition herself as a force that will regain the nation's financial and political stability.

RosettaMed is an inovative software company whose business is creating and marketing products that electronically link patients, physicians and clinical databases to improve healthcare communications, efficiency, outcomes, quality and satisfaction. There is little doubt that nearly all medical records will become electronic this decade. Recent reports from the Institute of Medicine and bills in the US Senate and State legislatures foretell the coming revolution in clinical documentation. The previous decade showed that transitioning to EMRs is painful for physicians and their organizations. RosettaMed products will alleviate the pain by enabling faster, more accurate and complete documentation that supports both higher quality care and higher reimbursement for the physician.

Come and find out for yourself at the Awards Party: June 28 5:00 to 8:00 PM Atrial Theatre @ Bayou Place 500 Texas St, Houston, TX 77002 (713) 221-8883 (Team Enron's total for 2001 will be announced by e-mail on June 15, at 2:30 p.m.) This party is for everybody who participated as a rider or volunteer in the MS150 bike tour, and it is here that you can pick up the prizes you have earned and celebrate the team results. Thank you for all you have done toward our team's success !! A new approach: We are designing a custom form for Team Enron registrations for the 2002 MS150, and will have a table at the party so you can sign up early, directly with us, for those low numbers you like to get. Come see us there! All the money you have turned in is being carefully reconciled with MS this week and next, and the amounts will be in order by the 28th. If you have any money yet to be processed, please contact me, Stephanie Strong, 713-853-1653 or Becky Pham at 713-345-7094 ASAP. Talking points for Vivendi Talking points for Jean-Marie Messier, Chairman and CEO of Vivendi.

Blockbuster has had several meetings with Universal to obtain rights to content for the video on demand (VOD) offering. Blockbuster has proposed an agreement to license product for both VHS/DVD rentals and the video on demand offering.

The negotiations have stalled because Universal has not been willing to sign any long-term agreements without Vivendi's support.

Blockbuster has refused to renew their agreement with Universal for VHS/DVD rentals until Universal agrees to grant digital VOD rights. This will be detrimental to both parties.

We would like for Vivendi to communicate to Universal that they would support a VOD agreement between Universal and Blockbuster for digital content rights. A conversation with Mr. Messier on this topic would be appreciated.

YPO IOS Request

Jeff,

I am a YPOer in the Rebel Chapter who was given your name from an IOS source as someone who could potentially help in this situation. As background, I sent this IOS request out last week:

Description of Situation My highway construction company has been negatively impacted by price volatility in energy prices (fuel, natural gas, and asphalt cement). We offer long term, fixed price contracts to our clients yet must purchase our petroleum and energy-related products at spot market prices. Thus we are exposed to significant price adjustment risks.

Type of Feedback Requested: Does anyone have experience using commodity contracts as an arbitrage strategy to offset the risks of potential price volatility in the energy sector? If so, do you have specific recommendations for how we should proceed?

Thank you for any information you can offer.

As I have investigated this further, I find no one in this industry (highway construction) who is purchasing futures to mitigate their energy cost exposure. I have spoken with folks who are doing this in the building supply sector with lumber futures.

Do you have any thoughts or suggestions in this matter? Any input would be greatly appreciated.

Many thanks,

Michael Mangum Rebel Chapter

Dear Mr. Brannen,

Jeff has left for the day, so has not yet seen your note. However, I wanted to let you know that the timing may not work on February 15. He is attending a board meeting that morning, which is followed by a luncheon. There is not much daylight in the afternoon, either, but I'll check with him first thing Monday morning to see if there is anything we can do to free up a few minutes.

Have a nice weekend.

Hi Jeff, Don't know if you remember me from your old McKinsey days, but I am Richard Saettone's wife. The entire family is finally back in Houston after several years in Peru. I am working for a company called Home-Link Services, and wanted to request your aid in finding the correct person to talk to at Enron regarding our business model.

We currently represent over 200,000 transactions per year (people moving), and one of the most requested services from our customers is the connection of utilities. As an aggregator for the energy sector with that type of volume, who do you recommend we call? We are expected to grow to about 500,000 transactions by year-end.

Feel free to call me with any questions. I would be most happy to send you or the proper Enron contact an executive summary for review.

Richard sends his regards and we hope your family is doing well.

Subject: Financial Market Solutions

Dera Mr. Skilling,

Just a short e-mail to invite you to a meeting that I will be having with Carl Carter in your on-line development team at 1.00pm on the 27th floor in your offices located at 1400 Smith.

Financial Market Solutions (FMS) is a leading financial software company located in Bellevue, Washington. The company is dedicated to the development and implementation of Internet-based trading solutions for institutions in the global financial marketplace. The central component of all FMS solutions is the Universal Trading Platform (UTP), which is a dynamic web-based platform that enables unlimited numbers of simultaneous users to access the system and execute trades on a fully automated basis. This basic premise distinguishes FMS from other solution providers and gives our clients the ability to more effectively manage the liquidity of multiple users, trading over the Internet on a single platform. The UTP has been fully developed as a complete Foreign Exchange dealing system, however, the same platform can be used for transactions in any tradable financial instrument.

FMS has employed a team of expert software designers and technicians as well as experienced professionals from the financial markets, who together have designed and developed the UTP to transform the way the FX product is delivered to end-users. The platform is equally suited to the needs of large institutional users as well as retail investors. The FMS system, using the latest technology, is the most advanced on-line trading system available today and will likely shape the FX business model of the future.

We have made some major progress over the last 15 months and are poised to announce some key relationships that will have a major impact in the FX industry.

I understand that you are very busy, and that this invitation is unsolicited but as they say nothing ventured nothing gained.

Kind Regards,

Greetings! All's well today as we finally see sunshine in Houston.

Meanwhile, I thought you would enjoy hearing Texas A&M University hosted reception last Thursday, celebrating our J.V. in the Lockard & White Learning Center. Actual market requests helped define classes developed specifically for telecom, utilities, and energy firms - also, take a peek at www.lwlc.com.

These courses, designed based on requests from U.S. companies, fulfill a market need for professional training in the telecommunications arena. It is a Win-Win program in which all benefit from better trained professionals and industry leaders.

We look forward to exploring with you ways in which we may partner on domestic U.S. and international initiatives as well.

Jeff: In the March 2001 article of ecompany you recently made a statement about what " Keep's executives up at night?" You were quoted: " Keeping the system up. You dread the chance the system will crash. We had an air-conditioning problem last April or May, and we went down. The next day the front page of Gas Daily Journal had a story that said, ' gas trading stops because EnronOnline is down.'

I work with Availant, a software company in Cambridge, MA and our product, Availant Manager, is "self healing" technology. It is proactive and autocorrective, designed to monitor key system resources and to take safe and effective action on an event before an outage ever occurs. Recently, Compaq decided to ship our software with every new Proliant server it delivers to its customers. It is brand-named Compaq Availability Agents. <http://www.availant.com/home.html>

We believe our software could be of great value to Enron as the operation of your online business is so dependant on continuous server uptime. If you would, please let me know via email or phone the most convenient way in which to schedule a meeting with the team who runs your server operations. I can be reached directly at 617-374-7969.

Dear Mr. Skilling:

My name is Tony Kishindo and I am the Senior Market Analyst for DeWolff Boberg and Associates. I am approaching you with hopes of scheduling some time on your calendar for an introductory meeting between yourself and my Vice President, Scott Bein.

The meeting is 45 minutes long and we are not looking for any sort of commitment or decision at this point. We realize you may not be considering the services of an outside resource, now or in the foreseeable future. We non-the-less would appreciate the privilege of meeting with you, determining the compatibility of our two firms, and earning a place in your Rolodex. Regardless of the outcome of this meeting, we sincerely appreciate your kindness and courtesy.

We offer our clients guaranteed process improvement and operations cost reduction. We guarantee a 20% - 30% increase in production in as little as 8 months. The reason the results are so quick is because we are not technology peddlers, we focus in on people, equipment and materials which we have found to be any companies most valuable assets. We offer our clients a security blanket when it comes to process improvement. Please feel free to visit our home page at, www.dewolffboberg.com.

Thank you for your time, I look forward to scheduling 45 minutes of your time at your nearest convenience.

Sincerely,

Elvis, Woody sent me a note today. In it he mentioned that he has the old roll book from the fraternity house. He said he took it because the young fellas had no respect for the past. This reminded me of an idea I had earlier. I was thinking of the banner for our tent and thinking of some way of making it clear that it was the Old Betas tent...and beer. I was thinking of 'Original House Betas', 'Silver/Grey Betas'(...though I've become a silver-gray, my heart keeps time and measure... with Beta Theta Pi, to find my highest pleasure. Samuel N Wilson, Hanover '72) or something like that to distinguish our tent from the active Beta tent. I'm sure there are any number of clever titles that accomplish the same thing....keeping a bunch of young beer guzzling freeloading strangers out of our fricking tent! That's all.

TO: HOUSTON ANGEL NETWORK MEMBERS

FROM: MICHELLE WEISBLATT

Good morning!

HAN has established an agenda planning committee, for the purpose of setting the agenda for the monthly HAN meetings. Specifically, we will meet to discuss the companies who have submitted applications to either HAN or HTC, and determine who will present at the next HAN meeting in October. All HAN members are welcome at this committee meeting, and all present will participate in the selection process. The meeting details are:

*Purpose: To select presenting companies for the October HAN Meeting *Date: Thursday, October 4th *Time: 7:30-9:00 AM *Location: Koch Building, 20 E. Greenway Plaza

A complimentary, continental breakfast will be served. However, please RSVP to Michelle Weisblatt either by phone at (713) 533-9986 or by e-mail at mweisblatt@yahoo.com.

Many of you may be working with companies who are candidates to present. If so, these companies should submit the attached application, create a 2-page summary using the HAN template (also attached), and submit the $250 application fee via credit card either directly to me or in the space provided on the application. Our deadline for the applications to be considered for the October breakfast will be 12:00 PM on October 2. All applications that are submitted prior to the deadline will be posted on the website on October 2, so that Angels can review them before our Agenda Planning meeting on October 4th. Companies selected for presentation will pay an additional $750 presentation fee.

Please send the attached application and template to any companies who you would like to be considered as a candidate for the October breakfast. Any candidates not selected for October will be considered for subsequent months.

As always, if you have any questions, please call me at (713) 533-9986.

Regards,

Michelle Weisblatt

Dear Jeff,

A few months ago we talked about me working for Enron. I am a long time friend of John Miller...golfing and social...imagine that.

Though we did not find a position for me in your company things have gone quite well. I now have opened an office for Angus Systems Group in Atlanta.

Jeff...your company does a lot of facility stuff and our company is the expert in web based applications for properties for work requests and preventive maintenance. Could you give me the name of the person in your company that I could show our applications to?

Here is a little about our company and a brochure on a web, wireless and paperless Tenant Request (work order) solution.

H.H.Angus and Associates is our "mother" company. www.hhangus.com I work with Angus Systems Group Limited www.angus-group.com Our experience in property management is second to none. For 81 years we have designed buildings. 25 years ago we put Angus employees in buildings to manage them...just like you do. For 20+ years we have been designing software for property managers. The last 3 years we have been developing and delivering the web based products called Angus AnyWhere. We are the ASP. Quite simply we are a web,wireless and paperless work order solutions company....designed especially for Property Management.

Jeff...you really need to look at what we do. We are in fact the industry leaders in systems that could do the whole of North America for your company.

Happy Holidays,

Bill

I will tell Miller (the married man) that we are trying...somehow..some way to do some business.

Is Enron going to be doing anything "en masse" to help flood victims? I realize that Enron has already donated a substantial amount of money but I wondered if employees would be given time off during the work day to help those less fortunate. I volunteered Sunday afternoon at LBJ Hospital.

Jeff, Thanks for being on the panel at the CEO Forum. I really appreciated getting to hear the Enron story and talk through the talent issues with you. At my end, I am targeting my time to work with a few executive teams who are looking to forge a consensus response to problematic issues around managing for shareholder value, dealing with the "nasty bit," and managing context so that it does not overtake core. Dear Jeff

There aren't any "corporate speak" words that can express what I feel, so I will use plain English: I am thrilled that I will be working for you at Enron. I look forward to helping you and your team continue to transform Enron into the number one company in the world and into the best company in the world.

I have sent my bio to Steve Kean and will send him my list of my preferred California contacts. By mid-week, I will send you a cleaned-up version of the suggestions I outlined in our meeting.

I look forward to the next steps. It is an honor to be working with you again. I pledge to you my very best.

Dear Jeff,

In case you do not recall my name, I organized the Conference series for PDVSA that hosted President Bush (41), Lou Noto, Harry Longwell, etc. in 96, James A Baker III, et. al. in 97 and Robert Mosbacher , Jeff Skilling and others in 98.

Anyway, today after reading the Wall Street Journal, it could appear outright impertinent to contact you. I chose to believe exactly the opposite. Attached you will find an invitation to an interesting energy/ IT event. I think you will be able to judge the merits of attending on your own. I would like to take this opportunity to wish you all the best in your upcoming professional opportunities.

Best regards,

Tony

Jeff,

Congratulations on your well-deserved move to CEO of Enron.? Incredible things have happened there under your leadership and I'm glad to see it recognized.? I wish you much success.

Meanwhile, we continue to progress with our DSL/Cable Internet connected CD/DVD offering - having signed Harman Kardon to manufacture, Microsoft for our A/V codecs and digital rights management, a wide range of audio video content providers, and full page ads in the USATODAY as part of our $270 million Gannett relationship.? We are also up an running with 170 units in friends and families homes upgrading remotely.? What remains is us choosing the right broadband backbone/conduit relationship.?

Have a great holiday season and happy new year.

per our last conversation, i have a deal we wanted to get in front of you...

namely, would Enron be interested in helping set up a global market for private equity... much like you've done in electricity, gas, broadband? it's close to a $1T market and growing rapidly. we think it would change everything.

i'd like to set up a time to come down to houston and compare notes.

Jeff:

This is just a quick "head's up" to advise you that I am no longer retired and am CEO of an energy information start-up, Genscape, Inc., based in Louisville. Two founders (32 year olds) left power trading positions to pursue the development of technology able to measure the electric and magnetic fields emanating from high-voltage lines connected to power plants. They were successful and can now translate those measurements into highly accurate estimates of transmission line load and direction and from that make a highly accurate estimate of a power plant's generating status. The information is delivered to customers via Internet on a real-time basis. Genscape will by year end have built a monitoring network capable of monitoring 250+ plants or strategic transmission points in the Continental U.S. Genscape's initial customers are energy trading companies and subsequent customers will be power generators, transmission and distribution operators, insurers, fuel suppliers and transporters, regulators and wholesale power consumers.

The reason for the "head's up" at this time is that I'll be meeting with Scott Tholan of your staff on Tuesday, May 1, to review Genscape's product.

Thanks for the Astros tickets. The estate planning lawyer that I am using is Don Fizer with Fizer, Beck, something, something. He is located in the Galleria at 1360 Post Oak Blvd, Suite 1600, Houston, TX 77056 and his number is 713-332-4251. He has been great to work with because I was clueless and he was able to explain this stuff in a way that was pretty easy for me to understand. I also recommend making the first stop at the law firm instead of the trust company or financial advisor because I have found several of the trust companies and financial advisors really trying to push cookie cutter stuff and it is pretty easy to get something that doesn't fit your specific needs. I found Don very good at looking at my situation and directing me to a couple specific strategies and then to a couple trust companies that are better equipped to handle that.

The trust company I went with was Sentinel Trust, they are located at San Felipe and Kirby - 2001 Kirby Dr, suite 1210, Houston, 77019-6081. Bob Sweeney is my contact there 713-528-3728. I went with them for two reasons. 1 Because I was basically philosophically aligned with their approach ... conservative ...and I liked them better. and 2 they are very rigorous in their evaluation of investments and they have a guy named Bruce (I don't have his last name) who is interesting to talk to about markets, investments etc and I think he is smarter than the average bear.

I will get you the name of the other trust company when I can find it.

Extension of Series C Offering and Waiver of Right to Participate

June 29, 2001

Dear Questia Stockholder:

As a follow-up to our Series C stock offering, I would like to inform you that the participation in our Series C offering has been slower than anticipated. We had originally intended to raise $15MM to $20MM dollars. To date we have raised approximately $11MM although we are expecting to hear from several Taiwanese investors about a substantial investment that will be incremental to the $11MM that has been raised to date.

Additionally, we have recently retained Credit Suisse First Boston to assist us with a $25MM private placement with a strategic partner. We are optimistic that this round will close in mid to late September 2001.

You may recall that the Series C documents provided for us to close the Series C round on May 31, 2001. Questia would like to extend that period to permit additional Series C investors to participate in the Series C round on the same terms and conditions as the Series C investors who participated prior to May 31, 2001.

In order to facilitate this extension, I ask that you sign the attached waiver and return it to me by fax at 713-358-2996.

Please call me if you have any questions.

We are also talking to eSpeed, some Chicago Exchanges in a similar vein ...}

Our group of 15 (Carnegie Mellon technologists + trading / capital markets experts) located in Pittsburgh brings - strong e-market thought leadership (global trading outlook) - patent-pending technology that can help compare / trade "almost" standardized goods and services - this is a missing link in today's e-markets! - robust sales pipeline and small revenue (seven-figures) - low-cost, central hub location (with great access to Carnegie Mellon Professors / Research / Students) - experienced entrepreneurs / technologists who are happy to be "intrapreneurs" in this environment. We could make a positive impact on EnronCredit, BroadBand Services as well as your core energy business.

I am enclosing a couple of attachments to give you an idea of who we are ... I can provide more info. if there is interest. Thank you very much for providing an endorsement for Expectations Investing by Al Rappaport and Michael Mauboussin. We really appreciate receiving Mr. Skilling's thoughtful comments. We will plan to use the comments on the book jacket, the front page, or in some cases, in other promotional materials.

Our manuscript editor has suggested the following edit to the comments for style consistency with the rest of the work. Could you please review the revised endorsement below and determine if it meets with your approval?

Also, please confirm the name and title as you wish them to appear with the endorsement:

Jeff,

We last spoke a month or so ago...just after you returned home from your trip with your son, yet prior to your announcement to leave Enron. You were kind enough to return my call based on our YPO connection.

Since we last spoke, I have started a new company, APB Merchant Services, within a very successful energy brokering company called APB Energy.

I would like to talk with you, or someone within Enron...perhaps Jeff Donahue, about assistance in asset disposal. We represent a large base of cash buyers and have successfully made markets in this Telecom space.

Either way, I would enjoy an opportunity to catch up with you...please call 502.212.4908.

Dear Dorothy:

Thank you very much for your note; below I have laid out the agenda for the meeting for Ken and Jeff's approval:

1. Introduction to Adventis and our work in the Broad band space; - 20 minutes 2. Ken's brief on Broad Band Services group's way forward: challenges, issues, aspirations; - 15 minutes 3. Jeff's expectations and views form the corporate center;-10 minutes 4. Adventis' approach, likely routes to partnership;-10 minutes 5. Next steps: JEFF, KEN and our team.- 10/15 minutes

During the second hour with Ken, we wish to address specific points on the out come of the first meeting to define areas of focus for path forward:

1 Strategic and operational issues for short term value creation, and long-term robust development of BBS as global player 2. Acceleration capacity at BBS to capture short range opportunities versus outside assistance. 3. Likely ways we could engage with Enron for both short term and long-term wins. 4. Time line for creating the upside.

I am sure Ken and Jeff, will have a lot to add. Please do let me know.

Dorothy, given the significant challenges and opportunities ahead for Enron BBS, we will have four of our senior most partners with deep insights into Broad band and ASPs/CSPs join the meeting. I will come the night before, if possible to have dinner with Jeff and/or Ken. Please do let me know the possibility.

As I mentioned, Jerry is in transit in Europe at the moment, and it will be extremely difficult for me to get hold of him again today to reschedule. Given the time difference involved I will not be able to contact him before the appointed time tomorrow, and therefore I'd very much appreciate if we could go ahead with the call as planned. At least that way Mr. Skilling can decide which of the dinners he would prefer to attend, I assume that the more notice you have the better.

Published Friday, June 22, 2001 Texas energy exec says, 'I told you' POWER CRISIS ? Enron's Skilling gets pied before his speech blaming lawmakers, but says he understands Californians' anger By Rick Jurgens TIMES STAFF WRITER

SAN FRANCISCO -- A Texas energy executive who said his warnings were ignored by regulators who restructured California's electricity industry came to the Bay Area on Thursday to say, in effect, "I told you so." Jeffrey Skilling, chief executive of Houston-based Enron Corp., said that California wouldn't be in its current mess if regulators had followed his advice in 1994 and 1995. Regulators erred by forcing wholesale electricity transactions into the spot market so that deals could more easily be monitored, Skilling said in a speech to about 100 people at the Commonwealth Club of California. "They created a flawed marketplace in the name of regulatory expediency." Enron is a broker that buys and sells contracts to deliver power. Such bilateral transactions shouldn't have been banned, Skilling said. Skilling said that's what he said six years ago. "I probably made a pest of myself (in the restructuring hearings called by regulators) because I told them they were doing it wrong," he said. "They finally told me to keep quiet." On Thursday night, it was Skilling's turn to be pestered. A woman threw a chocolate pie into his face before the event began. Police said Francine Cavanaugh of Oakland was arrested on suspicion of battery and released. Skilling tried to ignore protesters but said he understood why Californians, facing blackouts and rising power costs, were angry. He even had kind words for Gov. Gray Davis, who, he said, "was dealt a very difficult hand." Skilling became Enron's chief executive in February, replacing company founder Kenneth Lay, an early proponent of electricity deregulation who is close to President Bush. Enron, a global energy giant with roots in the natural gas industry, owns some power plants, but its influence in the electricity industry reflects the rapid growth of its energy trading operation. Enron's only California generators are small wind facilities. However, the company has developed power plants. Enron initiated two 750-megawatt projects that were sold to Calpine Corp., including a Pittsburg plant due to go online next month. Enron has announced plans to seek regulators' approval for a 750-megawatt power plant in Roseville in Placer County. During the first three months of 2001, Enron posted a huge jump in revenue, to $50.1 billion from $13.1 billion a year ago, but a much smaller gain in net income, to $425 million from $338 million. Skilling himself cashed an $850,000 paycheck and got a $5.6 million bonus last year. But the energy crisis has taken its toll on Enron's stock price and on Skilling, who owned or held options to buy 1.9 million shares of Enron common stock at the time of the company's February proxy filing. At Thursday's closing price of $44.05 a share, the stock was down more than 50 percent from its 52-week high of $90.75 in August. That proved that Enron wasn't the villain in California, Skilling said. "This thing in California has been bad for everybody," he said. "If we had anything to do with this, we're the stupidest people in the world."

Los Angeles Daily News Friday, June 22, 2001 'Tonight Show' pokes fun at power crisis

By Fred Shuster Staff Writer

BURBANK -- Jay Leno pulled the plug on his late-night chat show Thursday, doing his part for the state's energy crisis, but viewers weren't left in the dark. Flashlights, mining helmets and multicolor glow sticks helped to illuminate the set for the show dubbed a one-time-only "The Tonight Show Unplugged," which Leno said saved enough electricity to light a house for a month. [IMAGE] The "unplugged" edition of "The Tonight Show with Jay Leno" pokes fun at the California power crisis(Reed Saxon / A.P.)

Call it NBC's "Can't See TV." "This is not some cheap rating ploy. ... If this works, they're gonna make us do this every night," Leno joked as part of his opening monologue. The nationally broadcast show, featuring a comic interlude with California Gov. Gray Davis, utilized just a small amount of electricity to run the cameras, Leno said before the show began. Actually, in Burbank, where the taping took place at NBC Studios, the city owns the power company and residents and businesses have not been hit by rolling blackouts as in other areas. The city made $5 million in profit in May after racking up $60 million in excess power sales. But Leno said not using studio lights, TV monitors, amplifiers and other power sources Thursday saved enough electricity to light a four-bedroom house for a month. Members of the house band wore miner's helmets, with group leader Kevin Eubanks strumming an acoustic guitar rather than his regular electric instrument. The stage was lit by candles, torches and flashlight beams trained on Leno. Members of the studio audience used the gear to help brighten the set. "This is real goofy," Leno said before taping got under way. "We'll see what happens." Guests included Arsenio Hall, Gilbert Gottfried, a trainer of nocturnal animals and a Hawaiian fire dancer -- and a brief visit from the governor. Exuding whatever is the direct opposite of charisma, Davis had a brief exchange with Leno, drawing laughs with the line, "This is the first time Gray Davis and (the word) electricity have ever appeared in the same sentence." Leno's staff wore glasses with small lights attached and audience prompter Bob Perlow held a hand-scrawled applause sign aloft throughout the show instead of switching on the usual electric model. While there was little energy in play, there was no shortage of laughs. Leno joked that President George W. Bush told Davis not to worry because, "I've been operating in the dark for years." Those in the studio said Leno's nocturnal transmission added excitement to the program. "It was cool," said Lillie Harrell, 17, a tourist from Hammond, La. "The crowd got really involved. I guess it shows you don't really need all those lights." Added Jose Tano, 21, a Burbank resident and student at the University of California, Los Angeles, "It was a good idea and a great way to make a point." The local power company might not have made out very well, but the studio audience didn't end up empty-handed. Each received a fluorescent lantern and pack of batteries as they left the studio.

Subject: Pug Winokur Suggested I Contact You

Dear Jeff,

I just wrapped up a meeting with Pug Winokur, an Enron Board member, and he suggested I contact you to invite you to participate in a CEO forum we host called Build Value 2001 CEO Forum to be held on May 1, 2001 at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco, California. The Build Value 2001 forum is a powerful venue to share your perspective and insights with CEOs of high-growth technology companies intent on learning and sharing with one another. This year's conference is heavily focused on exploring the opportunities and challenges in the converging online and offline marketplaces, and perhaps no other firm understands how to be successful in this market more than Enron.

The discussion we would like you to join is among CEOs and business leaders who are in large organizations that have effectively stayed on top of the wave and embracing technological innovation to succeed. David Pottruck is confirmed to speak on behalf of Schwab and we have invited AG Lafley from P&G and Jeanne Jackson from Walmart to join the discussion. Your participation on behalf of Enron would clearly be an integral part of the discussion.

Now in its fourth year, the Build Value CEO forum has established itself as the premiere learning forum for business executives intent on building successful technology related companies. The annual forum attracts a diverse group (750+) of CEOs and technology leaders who are integral to the continued growth and purpose of this learning community. The Build Value 2001 CEO forum is not a typical two-day investor conference. Rather it seeks to create a living lab of "how-to" success stories that can be referenced by participants throughout the year. This content becomes a valuable guide for many emerging growth companies and can be reviewed online at <<http://www.buildvalue2001.com>>.

Join speakers such as Bob Pittman (AOL), Jeff Mallett (Yahoo!), David Peterschmidt (Inktomi), Shelby Bonnie (CNet), and Mark Walsh (VerticalNet) who presented cutting edge topics to a sold out audience of CEOs at last year's conference titled "Brands Driving the New Economy". Prior conferences have also included corporate visionaries and luminaries such as John Hagel III & Marc Singer (McKinsey & Co.), Francis Ford Coppola (Coppola Companies), Howard Schultz (Starbucks), David Aaker (author), Meg Whitman (eBay), Harry Dent (author/speaker), Bob Fisher (Gap), and Cindy Crawford (eStyle, Inc.) to name a few. We anticipate this year's speaker roster to be even more impressive.

Build Value 2001's continuing strategic sponsors, with whom you will have many opportunities to interact, include some of the most innovative and forward thinking players in Silicon Valley today: Redpoint Ventures, Banc of America Securities, Silicon Valley Bank, CNET, Heidrick & Struggles, Cooley Godward and Citron Haligman Bedecarre. Venture Strategy Partners, Build Value's founding host, is a venture capital firm focused on accelerating the growth of emerging businesses across a spectrum of technologies.

I know your perspective and vision will be greatly appreciated and I, along with my colleagues, would be honored to have you as a distinguished speaker. Our office will follow up with you this coming week to confirm your participation. In the interim, please feel free to call me directly at 415-558-8600 with any questions or talk with Pug Winokur about the power of this forum.

Thank you for your consideration.

Best regards,

Joanna

Thanks for the response. Our next dinner is scheduled for September 25, at the moment I'm not sure who the other invitees would be. Jerry would probably have a better idea as he puts together the guest list for each event and may already have something in mind. That's actually another reason why I think we should leave the call tomorrow on the calendar. Depending on Mr. Skillings availability/interest Jerry might want to reconfigure his invitee list for the most appropriate mix of people.

Mr. Jeffrey Skilling,

My name is Mohamad Haidar and I represent DDI Technologies, Inc. We are a technology development firm; specializing in "digitizing control of the home" at a reasonable cost. DDI feels that Enron and DDI have an opportunity to both capitalize on the development path we are following.

I appreciate your time today and have Emailed to set up a time to discuss in more detail the technology development our firm has already accomplished and the directions we are set to pursue. DDI feels that the patent we have pending can provide the essential economic platform and protocols to make remote home controls, appliance connectivity, meter reading, medical inputs, food ordering and the provision of other services a reality.

Your firms position in the markets and growth directions would indicate your interest in developments such as DDI's. We would welcome the opportunity to demonstrate the prototypes we have developed; based on the patent noted above.

I thank you again for your time. Please, let us know. My contact information is bellow.

Mr. Jeff Skilling CEO, President, and COO Enron Houston, TX.

June 25, 2001.

Dear Jeff,

I worked at McKinsey (NY/FI) during 1985-91 and have since founded and run an IT systems integration company called Techna in Silicon Valley, with clients worldwide and Purnendu ("PC") Chatterjee (ex McK and affiliated with Soros' funds) as an equity partner. We have been working closely with Sempra Energy trading for the past couple of years and are beginning an engagement with NYMEX soon. Our president, Ben Bernstein (ex Microsoft) has been managing these clients on the east coast personally. Ben and I feel that we have interesting ideas in IT for Enron from our experience in this industry thus far, and would appreciate your indulgence in getting us in touch with the appropriate IT leaders at Enron for us to make a pitch. Your achievements at Enron since leaving McKinsey have deservedly won you quite a fan following! As an unabashed member of this group, I would love to hear from you anyway, when you find a moment in your busy day. Best regards.

Hi Ken and Jeff,

This email is being sent to let you know that my consulting contract with Enron has finally come to an end. It has been a great experience to me to have been involved in the development of such successful international projects as, Puerto Quetzal in Guatemala in 1993, Batangas and Subic Bay in 1992/93 in the Philippines and Guam in 1996, all of which are still contributing to Enron's earnings. The opportunities provided me during the first 26 years with Northern Natural Gas/Internorth, from which I retired in 1988, and the last 11 years as a consultant for Enron Development and Enron International have made me a better person and I thank you both for this.

I will continue to be involved in consulting and development of both power and natural gas projects, although on a more limited basis, and only as an independent.

Should there be any need for my services or need to be contacted for any reason, I can be reached at:

Curly Baca & Associates, Inc. 5213 Sagecircle St. North Houston, TX 77056-7075 713-629-7729 cell 713-515-8348 email: fbaca@pdq.net

Good luck as you both lead Enron, the Greatest Company, into the future, and once again, Thanks for the opportunity!!

With Best Regards,

Curly Baca

Dear Jeffrey,

I am contacting you at the suggestion of my brother Jeff Spar, Chief Information Officer of Reader's Digest and formerly of McKinsey [NYO 1990- 1999].

I am the CEO of a Houston based Microsoft technology consultancy called ESX Engineering. ESX has strong capabilities in software development, IT infrastructure and creative services. We have exceptional capability in Mobile/Wireless and Web based workflow application development. We also have tremendous domain experience in healthcare solutions.

As a small company CEO I am always looking for new opportunities to meet individuals whose firms may have need of our services. I would appreciate the opportunity to meet and introduce myself and ESX. If appropriate we could explore any potential opportunities between your firm and ESX, or perhaps you could provide a further referral.

Sincerely Yours,

Steve Spar

PS - ESX was recently featured in the Growth Strategies section of the Houston Business Journal. You can view the article on the HBJ site (<http://houston.bcentral.com/houston/stories/2001/04/30/smallb1.html>).

Jeff,

I have been researching Enron and understand some of the difficulties with running global applications. Many companies have problems with database replication over a wide area network. Traditional database replication is great for local area replication within one data center. Once you scale to multiple data centers, traditional replication is unreliable, complicated to set up and manage, and very expensive.

Zembu's software was designed to address this exact problem. Our data replication and synchronization solution can be used with 2 to n geographically dispersed data centers. Zembu also alleviates problems with:

-Global application performance -Real time data sharing among multiple data centers -24/7/365 application availability
-Cost effective scaling

Zembu can be used for unique log on applications, internal and/or external applications.

I like to talk with someone at Enron to see if using Zembu as part of your e-infrastructure and architecture would be beneficial to you. We can determine this quickly via a brief conference call. Who should I speak with?

Sincerely, Fran Compagno

Hi everyone-- greetings to all. I hope you are well and enjoying your summer! I wanted to let you know that the process is complete and my appointment to the corporate board of directors for GridSouth Transco, LLC is confirmed. GST is a new regional transmission organization, formed under the U.S. Federal Energy Regulatory Commission's Order 2000, which encourages creation of larger electric power market areas in the U.S. GST will operate the transmission assets of Duke Energy, Carolina Power & Light (Progress Energy) and SCANA (South Carolina Electric & Gas), with 22,000 miles of transmission lines connected to approximately 34,500 megawatts of electric generation serving more than 3.75 million customers in North Carolina and South Carolina. This appointment is in addition to and apart from my duties here at the Institute, but a great opportunity for us to get a good look at how the electric power industry is being re-shaped. The board begins operation next September. For more information about GridSouth, you can visit www.gridsouth.com.

Mark,

You are a couple of days ahead of me. You have a good tickler file.

First, may I offer my congratulations on your recent marriage. You moved to Turkey to write - now you have someone to share your life experiences. Life is good.

I am doing great. The market appears to have bottomed out is now "ratcheting up". And yes- our new president is headed in the right direction with his tax cut and especially his energy policy. If we can just keep the Governor of California from going too far out into left field and people realize what we have today was a result of the "past" president.

Speaking of field, I went to Enron Field last night. Fantastic baseball stadium. A must on your travel list. I'm sure someone else you may know also feels the same way.

Yes, it's premium time again. Jeff made a $15,000 Gift to the Trust on 5/2/01 - Send Crummy Letter after this date. I told Jeff when he made the gift, I would be contacting you to make the premium payment at the end of the month

I will e-mail you on 5/30/01 the exact amount your are responsible to pay. As last year, I will e-mail a Word attachment you can sign and fax back to me. I then will ensure premiums are paid by both parties.

Thanks,

Keith

Jeff,

Just a brief note to thank you and your team for meeting with me during your busy trip to Boston last week. Due to time constraints, we did not get a chance to talk at length about NYUonline, so FYI - I thought I would email you a brief overview of our group.

NYUonline is the "for profit" eLearning subsidiary of New York University, and we are a content and technology eLearning company. On the content side, we work with the over 20 schools at New York University to bring their content online for the individual school's distance learning programs and then repurpose for our Fortune 1000, Government and other Higher Education customers worldwide.

On the technology side, we developed one of the industry's leading Learning Object Driven, and Scorm conformant (industry standard) Web Based Authoring/Publishing Tool that will be released commercially in May ("iAuthor"). The authoring tool enables Higher Education Institutions, Corporations and Governments to bring their content and knowledge online in the form of "Learning Objects". The tool has received very strong marks from our colleagues in the higher education space (oxford, Stanford, uc Berkeley, uc Irvine, Princeton, Cornell, London school of economics, etc); as well as the corporate market. In fact, one of the presentations we were having in Boston was to HBS's new interactive unit, and HBS's executive director - information technology group.

Thank you again for meeting with us, and you have an open invitation to join us in SOHO next time you are in the nyc area to meet the rest of our team,

Subject: hi Jeff: For the past few weeks I have been contemplating writing to you but somehow didn't quite get to it, when I received a call from your office regarding my address so that has spurred me to action. As you can imagine, I was most surprised to read that you had resigned the CEO position at Enron just as the firm had achieved, and was achieving, so much. There seems little question that you put an enormous stamp on the organization and it's a real shame that you will not be leading Enron in the ensuing years. I know little of the reasons for your resignation other than the formally announced personal reasons, so I can only hope that you will be able to tackle these in your new role in private life. There is little question that you will have more time to yourself than you have had in the previous few years. In any event, if your travels take you to New York, it would be great if we could meet up. I really enjoyed the couple of meals we had together a few years ago. For my part, life continues pretty much as usual. I am now Chair of the Marketing division and continue to be active in teaching and writing. I should like to send you a couple of books that were published in the past few months -- there is data about these on my web site (see below) -- so please have your secretary advise me of the appropriate address.

Jeff,

We last spoke a month or so ago...just after you returned home from your trip with your son, yet prior to your announcement to leave Enron. You were kind enough to return my call based on our YPO connection.

Since we last spoke, I have started a new company, APB Merchant Services, within a very successful energy brokering company called APB Energy.

I would like to talk with you, or someone within Enron...perhaps Jeff Donahue, about assistance in asset disposal. We represent a large base of cash buyers and have successfully made markets in this Telecom space.

Either way, I would enjoy an opportunity to catch up with you...please call 502.212.4908.

Hi Ken Louise and Jeff,

Attached are the links to the multimedia cases Harvard prepared in association with the cases recently written, excerpted from the videos they took of the 3 of you a few months ago.

I'm remotely accessing this while travelling and have been unable to open the videos. This is likely a function of the remote connection.

Ken and Jeff, I'll review each of yours when I'm better able to access. I'll then provide you my comments (if any), as you will need to sign off on the release and use of these by Harvard.

Louise, will you please review at least your portion?

Thanks!

Hi Christie, I'm happy to send you the links to our two Enron multimedia cases. The written part of the cases is exactly the same as their traditional, hard-copy counterparts; the video clips are taken from the longer Enron video tapes we had made in January.

I'll be sending you the required paperwork for your sign-off. (We'll also need sign-offs from the three case protagonists--Ken, Jeff and Louise.) In the meantime, if you could review the cases and pass them on for Ken's, Jeff's and Louise's approvals, that would be great.

Please feel free to contact me if the video links don't work--I've checked them on my machine and they seem to work fine, but things sometimes get distorted in transmission--or if you have any questions. Thanks for all your help, and have a great weekend! Best, Meg

Dear Jeff:

The editing process has been completed on your Batten Dinner keynote speech and your interview with me, Professors Bodily, Liedtka, and Teisberg. I am delighted to announce that both are now available for viewing on the Batten web site. The finished product is impressive, and I think you will be happy with it. Please take a look at:

*<http://www.darden.virginia.edu/batten/index.htm>. This web cast is the first in Batten's Electronic Series on Leadership and Transformation. It is the Institute's intent to produce these web casts on an on-going basis as a means of creating permanent "footprints" from all of its research and educational programs. Batten hopes that they will serve both as additional intellectual resources within the School and as reflections of Darden's research activity externally. As part of our mission to "foster pioneering thought and practice for creating, leading, and transforming business enterprise," we have shared this web cast with the Darden community and will forward it to Darden alumni and friends of the School in the next week. It is our hope that you have an audience that you would like to share the site with, also. Jeff, again I extend my thanks to you for generating the content for this web cast and for sharing your valuable time with us. Compliments are still coming in about the elegant and stimulating evening of May 25th. My appreciation also goes to Christie Patrick, Ursula Brenner, Hamd Alkhayat, Sherri Sera, Joannie Williamson, Melinda McCarty, and Karen Marshall who all made special efforts to arrange for your visit to Charlottesville. Harvard University Club of Houston - Harvard Forum "Pathways to Success: What it Takes to Move from Dorm Room to Board Room in Two Easy Decades" Dinner and Discussion Club Following upon the rousing success of the Club's first Harvard Forum "Raising Children of Character in A World of Affluence," the Harvard Club of Houston is conducting another Harvard Forum. We plan to have three during the current academic year. For those of you unfortunate enough to have missed the first Forum, the format works like this: we'll have dinner, and then a panel of Harvard grads will give brief introductions to the evening's topic from their perspective, and then we will all engage the topic for ourselves in a moderated discussion. The panel members will be knowledgeable, but not so expert that anyone will be intimidated. They will, however, be provocative to assure that the subsequent conversation is lively. You will come away knowing your fellow Club members better than ever - maybe better than you ever wanted. We hope that the topic we've picked for the second Forum will be captivating to recent and older alumni alike. Our panelists will cover the spectrum of vocational experience, not all business people; and you might argue whether some even have a vocation. Some will identify the critical factors in achieving success, while others will argue that all personal planning is an exercise in self-delusion. We are confident that the discussion will be informative and lively. Because of the format, only the first 40 people can be accepted. We had to turn away people last time, so please respond promptly, as indicated below. When: Saturday, September 22, 7:30 p.m. Where: Briar Club, 2603 Timmons (East Briar Room) Cost: $35.00 per person Reservations: Email dottie@kerr-solutions.com or call 281/424-3084 (Payment must be made at time of reservation by credit card or mailing check to 3413 Cobblestone Lane, Baytown, TX 77521-1956.) Mr. Ken Rice Chairman & CEO Enron Broadband Services 1400 Smith Street Houston, TX 77002 USA

Dear Mr. Rice:

Further to the call today, I have been referred to you by the office of Mr. Skilling. For added background, I have had the pleasure of working with some of your US and Asian-based executives on transactions, notably Mike Gaffud in the Philippines regarding the sale of an equity interest in Subic Power, and meeting some of your board members including Mr. Ronnie Chan of Hong Kong, while working abroad in Asia. This follows a banking relationship with you all from a Bank of America stint.

I am in touch on a newly-formed entity, TeliOn Broadband, of which I am a partner. It is an early mover, capital efficient fixed wireless integrated service provider (WISP) owning last mile applications in the focused markets we have researched and chosen. Many of which are already in markets that Enron has presence. Attached please find the executive summary for your review.

We are in the process of our Series A launch and beta tests. After meeting internally and given national scalability, would like to invite Enron Corporation and its affiliate, Enron Broadband Investments, to review as a potential partner for this round. From what we understand, there seems to be some complementation to your current wireless communication interests and broadband initiatives. Supplementally, there may be a relationship to explore regarding co-location on certain tower sites. At an appropriate future point, there may be a couple of third party co-investment structures, in addition to Cisco Systems interests, for possible discussion.

Look forward to our being in touch. We would be pleased to meet for a proper presentation to your firm. Additional materials can be made available as needed in the form of our powerpoint overview and consolidated pro-forma from our financial model.

Finally, we would appreciate a receipt confirmation of this delivery. Thanks for your kind attention. Should you have questions in the interim, please feel free to contact me via below.

With Kind Regards, ROC

Dear JEFFREY SKILLING:

We are delighted that you have made a smart energy choice by signing up with NewPower(tm) as part of the Texas Electric Choice Pilot Program. Tens of thousands of Texas households have joined you in taking advantage of the tremendous savings NewPower will provide you over the next two years.

As your new energy supplier, we wanted to make sure that you were informed of a recent development affecting you as a participant of the pilot program. NewPower was recently notified by the Texas Public Utility Commission (PUC) that the orchestrated to work as a single, seamless effort. Surely Enron handles alot of this already but could the current process be made more cost effective as well as expediting or increasing international revenue from foreign markets?

SDL also offers ETS, a real time translation product that allows for instant, multi lingual messaging, email, web based customer support, etc... Product currently has a significant installed base of clients, in particular, a joint effort between EDS and the FAA for global emails to pilots and airports, as well as being used at Lucent as an internal communications tool. Again, this type of technology would be use solely for content/info. one would not normally localize or translate. ETS Webflow, which will further seperate us from the other static in the Globalization industry.

I look forward to any suggestions you may have on how and with whom to proceed further with. Thanks again for your time and have a great day.

Regards,

Michael

Mr. Kenneth Lay Chairman Enron Corporation 1440 Smith Street Houston, Texas 77002

Dear Mr. Kenneth Lay:

This brief note concerns an innovative business development opportunity in the rapidly expanding field of B2B eProcurement/e-commerce. I am trying to initiate a system to fully integrate an industry that is fragmented and in need of adding scalable 'process' efficiencies. This will require substantial resources that are not available to me. These resources would be less significant to a company like Enron Corporation. However the upside potential would, I believe, be significant to your corporation. The risk reward ratio in this marketplace favors the upside potential significantly. This market is ripe for innovation because of the fundamental need to improve product and service delivery in a cost effective and timely manner. The process has already begun but will require a critical mass player that can deliver open-market eProcurement. The process related savings alone will be approximately $11 billion annual when an effective supply chain system is implemented. The timing is critical since in the next 18- 36 months the winners and losers would have already lined up for success and failure. A linchpin is needed and it could well be Enron. I have little doubt that Enron could do the job and become the stand-alone leader in this field.

I am writing to Enron Corporation to determine your potential interest in a very large global marketplace that is poised for transformation and transition. This marketplace is currently valued in excess of $300 billion annual worldwide with high profit margins as well as large continuing revenue growth rates in excess of 10% annually. There are buy and sell side opportunities for revenues as well as a transactional fee opportunity.

What I am proposing would be the critical next innovative step to enter a new level of global sourcing, purchasing, risk management and distribution for this industry.

I realize the vagueness and brevity of my comments but without an existing level of confidentiality I cannot expand these thoughts. If you have interest in taking one additional step to determine if my strategic concept has merit please let me know.

Best regards,

John Manfredonia

There are only a few available spaces at the upcoming Harvard Forum. Don't miss this new and exciting event. Make your reservations today. See meeting details below. *****

Harvard University Club of Houston - Harvard Forum "Raising Children of Character in A World of Affluence" Dinner and Discussion Club

Join us for a new type of Harvard Club experience. Ever wanted to talk substantively about a topic, while having a great dinner, but were afraid that your dinner guests would not be able to go the distance with you in the conversation? We have the solution.

Modeled after a format that members David and Anne Grizzle and Danguole Spakevicius and William Altman have been enjoying for years, the Harvard Forum will provide an opportunity for an extended conversation with fellow club members.

The format works like this: we'll have dinner, and then a panel of Harvard grads will give brief introductions to the evening's topic from their perspective, and then we will all engage the topic for ourselves, first in a large group and then in small groups. The panel members will be knowledgeable, but not so expert that anyone will be intimidated. They will, however, be provocative to assure that the subsequent conversation is lively. You will come away knowing your fellow club members better than ever - maybe better than you ever wanted.

The topic we've picked is one with which many of us have struggled. Our children may be growing up in a world far more affluent - privileged - than we enjoyed. How imperiled is their character by our success? What practical steps can we take to insure that we pass along to them the character values that we treasure?

We plan to schedule a Harvard Forum every quarter.

Because of the format, attendance is limited. Please respond as indicated below.

When: Friday, May 18, 7:30 p.m. Where: Briar Club, 2603 Timmons (East Briar Room) Cost: $35.00 per person

Jeff,

I hope the information below will be of benefit to your efforts. Please review and pass to the appropriate people.

The risks associated with data-intensive information technology projects are overwhelming. The business and IT people responsible for working with corporate data often discover that it is poorly documented, unreliable, and spread out among different computing environments. Data-specific projects like e-business, merger & acquisition-related business systems consolidation, data warehousing, customer relationship management, supply chain management, business intelligence, etc often fall short of the benefits they were designed to provide.

In addition:

"The amount of data that most organizations have created and the inconsistencies that exist in that data make it more of a liability than an asset." The Gartner Group

"Only 17% of corporate projects that require integration, migration or consolidation of data succeed. 83% of these initiatives either over run or fail. The key reason being a lack of understanding of the source data." The Standish Group

Evoked Software's AXIO product suite enables companies to accelerate and enhance their business initiatives and deployments of new applications. AXIO automates the analysis of corporate data residing in disparate systems across the enterprise. It discovers data relationships and dependencies and identifies data quality issues, inconsistencies between different systems housing similar information, and incompatibilities between data sources and target systems. The results of this process-accurate metadata about existing systems-are stored in the Evoked Repository and are used to develop accurate maps and transformation specifications that drive subsequent extract, transform and load or application integration processes. AXIO sometimes gets confused with data cleansing and ETL Tools. Evoke's products do not move or cleanse your data. We provide the ground-zero analysis of data from any source to ensure the success of your data-specific projects and avoid costly re-work of data issues.

The attached document explains the business reasons why companies like IBM, AT&T, Agilent and Kraft utilize our technology to reduce risk and increase time to market of their enterprise projects. Please review the document at your leisure. If you should have any questions please call me at (972) 383-1220.

Jeff, Contract management has become a big issue in most Fortune 1000 companies because of the risk to market capitalization that obligations in corporate contracts pose. I think that Enron executives would be very interested in the articles hot linked below. I would be glad to spend time with your organization to investigate the impact of enabling contract management best practices at Enron. diCarta provides the first web-based contract and revenue management solution that enables businesses to negotiate, track, manage, and renew contracts via the Internet. We have had tremendous success in helping companies like Kraft, BEA Systems, Intuit, Agile, Ernst&Young, Deloitte Consulting and many others gain visibility into their contracting and revenue management processes while mitigating financial and legal risks. Below is the diCarta solution overview then links to recent articles including our partnerships with Arthur Andersen and Deloitte. diCarta's Focus: diCarta Contracts automates your entire contract lifecycle including negotiations, execution, revenue management, maintenance, and renewals on both the sell-side and buy-side. Your complete contract information will now be in one central location, on-line, for down-stream revenue, obligation, and renewals management. This is enabled by a direct link of the unstructured data in the contract to structured data, which allows you to take automatic actions based on the actual contract Ts&Cs. To maximize communication and efficiency, diCarta Contracts was specifically designed to be a collaborative application using role-based security. E-signatures are supported as well. Negotiation: You can negotiate contract Ts&Cs on-line with an internal approval workflow to manage risk. Not only will you shorten your quote-to-cash cycle, but reduce your legal and financial risk by having on-line visibility into what Ts&Cs you are approving before the contract is executed. Revenue Management: On the sell-side, you will have a framework for revenue recognition per the FASB and SEC guidelines that is driven directly from the contract Ts&Cs. Now you can manage your revenue recognition risk, significantly reduce labor, and avoid possible non-compliance. This is extremely important as companies struggle with adherence to SAB 101. On the buy-side, you can proactively track expenditures.

Renewals: Since all contract Ts&Cs are captured, your renewal process can be completely automated. Accurate renewal notices linked to the contract can be sent to your customers, vendors, and/or you on a timely basis. Good Morning. Pardon the lengthy email, but there's lots to report.

We had a great meeting this morning, with tremendous enthusiasm for where we're going. Please find below a recap as well as some action items going forward.

We had three companies present: Metrixx, Molecular Electronics Corporation, and Telecare International. Those of you who are interested in attending follow up meetings were encouraged to sign a sign in sheet with your email address. If you are interested in attending the follow up meetings or receiving details on the results of those follow ups and did not sign up, please send an email to Kathy Nethercutt at knethercutt@houstontech.org. Once we have a list of names, we will forward information specific to each company to those angels who have indicated interest. The scheduled meeting times are as follows:

Metrixx: Monday, 8/20 8:00-10:00 AM MEC: Wednesday, 8/22 2:00-4:30 Telecare: Tuesday, 8/21 7:30-10:00

In the case of Molecular Electronics, please ignore the $250k minimum. There are Angels already working to put together an LLC to pool capital for purposes of meeting this minimum.

The next HAN Steering Committee meeting is scheduled for Monday morning, at the Houstonian, from 7:00-9:00 AM in the regular location. Kerry Brooks will follow up with a reminder email. Also, we are working on putting together a schedule of Steering Committee meetings so that we can all mark our calendars in advance.

The next HAN meeting will be on September 19. The location of that meeting is yet to be determined, but will be announced via a follow up email. In the next meeting, The Steering Committee will deliver the following:

**An explanation on the specific structure of HAN as an organization **An overview of the deal-flow process and how companies get presented/moved through to investment **Details of how HAN will overcome Member liability

Please also note, that HTC will be having an event at the Houstonian on September 20, for Angels who are interested in becoming more involved in biotechnology investment opportunities. Because of our medical center and the growing, national interest in biotech, Houston-based Angels are uniquely positioned to take advantage of these opportunities. More details will follow, directly from HTC.

Lastly, I have attached an Angel application in Word format. Please feel free to complete/submit the application electronically to Kathy at HTC. HTC can accept payment for the $1,000 membership fee via credit card, over the telephone. Remember that those Angels who apply prior to the end of the next meeting will have their dues paid through 2002. Also, please pass the application on to those ACCREDITED investors who may be interested in joining or any that you have already recommended whose contact information may not be in the HAN database.

Again, I'm looking forward to helping build a great Network. Let's keep the momentum going!

Fred, I now have a scanner that works (actually the scanner has always worked). It's ME that doesn't know how to use the scanner but here's a shot at it. This picture was taken at dinner the night before the SMU/KU game last month in Big D.

Send it out if you get it OK!!

Friends,

Most of you know about our company ValueScience Corporation, though for some this is an introduction. We have been "at it" for two years now, and have created a really special company dedicated to developing world class tools to unravel the mystery of building shareholder value. We have attached a very brief overview and FAQ which will help fill in some of the blanks, but suffice it that we are setting out to completely change the basis on which companies are valued, the way that we understand stock market behavior, and the tools by which Senior Management sets priorities, allocates scarce resources, and values transactions (e.g., M&A, private equity, IPOs, technology acquisition)

Please expect us to begin communicating routinely to you about ValueScience, comments on recent market events, insights about trends in value drivers in key markets, etc..

Cheers,

Bob

For all of you who are active participants in the Enron Corp. Savings Plan, we have made arrangements with Northern Trust, our Plan Administrator, to expedite any loan requests made during the week of June 18 - June 29 in order to help you during this recovery period from any flood damage you may have experienced.

If you do not already have an outstanding loan, you can request up to 50% of your balance up to a maximum of $50,000. To request a loan follow these three easy steps in order to ensure quick processing:

1. Log onto the website: <https://www4.rsweb.com/61045/#> or call the Benefits Service Center at 713.853.7979.
2. Enter your SSN and your Personal Identification Number and click on "Loan Information" to see the amount available. If you wish to request a loan, click on "Loan Modeling/Request" and follow the instructions.
3. Checks will be mailed from Northern Trust in Chicago on June 27 for loans requested the week of June 18 - June 22 and on July 5 for loans requested June 25 - June 29.

NOTE: The IRS restricts Hardship Withdrawals to specific circumstances outlined in the Money-in-Motion guide on the benefits website. Unfortunately, while we know the flood has imposed hardships on many of you, these circumstances do not qualify for a withdrawal.

Dear Jeff:

I learned about your decision to resign from the CEO role at Enron. As a McKinsey alum who has watched you transform Enron from a pipeline operator to the world's foremost energy/trading company, it is hard for me to imagine Enron without you. Enron's strategies based on 'options thinking' and investments in growth options inspired my work on 'real options' which turned out to be the winner in McKinsey's worldwide Practice Olympics in 1995 (thought you might like a copy of an offshoot).

I left McKinsey to join Morgan Stanley in 1997 and I am currently running KnowledgeCube, a venture capital firm with a couple of McKinsey alums such as Ali Hanna (Stamford) and some classmates from MIT. Our Advisors include the Heads of Entrepreneurship at MIT, Stanford, Harvard, CMU and Cornell. Our investors include Rajat Gupta of McKinsey, the CEO Hughes Networks and MDs from institutions such as AIG and CSFB.

KnowledgeCube has just launched a $150M Energy Fund which would invest in IT companies that seek to enhance the productivity of the energy sector. We have partnered with some folks with global relationships and knowledge of the space including Lord Cecil Parkinson (Energy Secretary of UK).

I was wondering if I could persuade you to be a part of the KnowledgeCube network as a Lead Partner, Advisor or Investor. I will arrange to send some more information on KnowledgeCube and the proposed Energy Fund to your home address if that is OK with you.

I look forward to hearing from you.

There's something about cycling that brings out the best.....and here's a couple of great examples of the very best.....Ansel Michaels and his valiant, successful attempt to do the distance, and Charles Delacey's desire to help make that journey less painful for Ansel. I hope you find it in your hearts to salute the efforts of each of them by offering your support.

Charles is a member of Team Enron and was the first rider in to LaGrange this year, arriving 11:15 am. Please read the following, and if you have questions, his e-mail is Charles.Delacey@enron.com, telephone: 713-853-5757. THANK YOU!

From: Delacey, Charles To: Team Enron Subject: Ansel Michaels/MS150

Ansel Michaels is a 15-year-old freshman at Lamar High School. Ansel swims on the Lamar swim team and this year, for the first time, joined his swimming teammates on the 2001 MS 150. Ansel is a paraplegic and rides a hand crank bike in which he is seated and pedals with his arms. On the first day into LaGrange, Ansel suffered two blowouts and still managed to ride 93 miles before being asked to stop by support crews. Sunday morning, he was back in the saddle and finished all 72 miles in time to catch the final bus back to Houston.

Ansel pedaled a hand crank bike that was more suited to going around the block than to Austin. The gears did not work properly and his bike made an extremely difficult task harder than it should have been. Ansel has limited resources and has already talked about how excited he is about riding in general and the MS150 for next year. I am asking for donations to help Ansel buy a new bike. A decent hand crank bike costs aprox. $3,000. Any donations in excess of the cost of the bike will be contributed to the MS Society. An account has been established at West University Bank and checks should be payable to Ansel Michaels. Donations can be sent to:

Hi, Jeff.? I wanted to send you my "business card", not having one Friday night when my friends and I met you at the Federalist in Boston.? I no longer work for Governor Cellucci and have a real estate investment management company of my own. (see below) ? To remind you, I am a BU alumna, having graduated from the Graduate School of Management.? If your daughter thinks she might like to attend BU and you need a database of alumni, I would be happy to meet with her for a future reference. ? I would be remiss, however, if I did not mention my alma mater undergraduate school, Simmons College.? It's located in the Fenway and is the only women's college in Boston.? The college is noted for training women to be leaders in diverse fields, from communications (my undergraduate degree), to health care, to management, to name only a few majors.? We have quite a number of notable women executives, media celebrities, and lawyers, like myself, too! What's nice about Simmons is that it combines the best of higher education worlds; i.e., it is a small liberal arts university for women with a co-ed social life. ? Simmons is one of 32 other colleges in Boston and was ranked 15th among all colleges in the Northeast by US News last year. ? ? If I sound as if I'm promoting Simmons, I am.? The reason I left Massachusetts?government last year was to run the College's Centennial....once in a hundred year opportunity, you know!? And, besides, Gov. Cellucci's wife Jan received her graduate degree from Simmons in library science, so he was fine with my departure. ? ? If you think Kristy might entertain a women's college, the website is www.simmons.edu.? My friend Patricia Tencza is the Undergraduate Admissions Director.? If you or your daughter want to email her, just mention my name.? Her email address is Patricia.Tencza@simmons.edu. ? I hope your trip back to Houston was fine.?? I enjoyed meeting you.? Wish we had a bit more time to talk.? Regards,? Maria ? Maria Marasco, Esq. Managing Partner STETS & Co., LLC???????????? Hello --

The IBM meeting on Monday at 12:30pm in Houston (49C1) is an informal working session meeting for the EBS/IBM ASP team rather than a major checkpoint meeting. Therefore, you definitely do not need to attend. However, you are certainly welcome to drop by at any time. A few morale words about the importance of the effort and the size of the joint opportunity with IBM in the ASP space are always welcome if you get a chance to come by.

Jeff: I got a call from Perminder Bindra on Saturday. He says that the IBM team assigned to EBS is extremely excited. His concern is that there are other ASP efforts with other companies going on in IBM, and he fears that the "normal" IBM noise level around these efforts could slow us down (our goal is an agreement this quarter). So if you can stress our need for speed in your call with Sam P. tomorrow, that would be helpful. I am hoping that IBM will treat EBS as the top ASP-related partnership that they develop. Thanks for your help.

Best regards.

-- Rex

Dear friends and colleagues,

All Europeans have been following the horrific events taking place in the US over the last few days and we are all extremely shocked by this tragedy. We would like to extend our deepest sympathy to all Americans and sincerely hope that none of you (or relatives/friends/colleagues) has been terribly impacted by these events. We are also very comforted when seeing American's determination, strength and confidence in the future.

Sophia Antipolis - September 11, 2001

Net-atHome2001: an invaluable opportunity

A lot happened during this supposed quiet summer period... Things are going so well that almost no sponsorship opportunities remain after Siemens, HomeRF, DS2, Wrap/Merloni, Konnex and MetaVector Technologies recently joined the pool of event sponsors. Space at the exhibition is selling out fast and the highly interactive strategic conference is set to be the event of the year in Europe for all industry professionals (<<http://www.net-athome.com/menu7.htm>>): the event has already attracted enormous interest from the market leaders in this sector and 3 months prior to the beginning of this exceptional week, over 110 people already signed-up. In November, over 300 attendees are expected to come for what will undoubtedly be the largest event in the field of Home Networks & Gateways, Connected Appliances and Internet Services in Europe.

Thank you for the time you have taken to go through this message. Please do not hesitate to contact us for any further information you would need.

Register now and sleep soundly? For those who did not register yet, please note that facing the fast-growing success of the event, we have only a few hotel rooms left to offer to non partner attendees. It is thus obvious that the quicker you will register the greater your chances to benefit from two free nights at the M?ridien Hotel will be. Register now and save money to visit Nice !

fire chief

Dear Jeff Skilling, Thanks so much for your involvement in the search for a fire chief. Having suffered the lack of competent leadership this department has experienced during my 20 year career, I offer these comments respectfully. This is an organization of unique people with a unique mission. Those who lead these people need not be mission specialists but must be true leaders of people. Because of the way fire departments grow their leaders from within, leadership is not a quality that evolves. Authority is used in its place. Firefighters are taught to rely on themselves in high tide, and they do not naturally seek information and ideas from others. Because politics won't allow the department to operate in a similar fashion to the Marine Corps, authority is less than useful at the top: leadership is essential. None of the men who have headed this department in the last 20 years have understood the difference between leadership and authority. They have commanded, but not led. The importance of this difference becomes evident once one is familiar with the problems addressed but not improved. The people in this department who raise their own flag high enough to be recognized as potential chiefs do so being driven by a combination of greed and ego. They campaign for the job because they want it, not because they think they can do a good job. When they take the fire chief's job, this ego does not allow them to lead talented people. It directs them to command and to control. The second major element of failure, when coupled to this egomaniacal command style, puts the incompetence in motion. As was extremely clear with the last chief we had, no ego check, no alter ego, no reality check was ever allowed. None of his people were allowed to express any oppositional views or to suggest anything differing from the chief's ideas. A true leader will more than listen to his opponents on any issue or idea. He will welcome differing views, knowing they might influence him in a positive way, even if only to preserve his image as almighty. In our department we have consistently seen a style of live or die by the chief's wishes. It's not what's best for the citizens that comes to the fore, it's what makes everyone remember who's in charge. I know this sounds bitter, but it's as true as it is counterproductive. The above described syndrome has contributed enormously to the failures of leadership we have seen. This department has made many mistakes laughable to organizational psychologists, fleet management experts, and most logical thinkers inside the department. This department's current state is much more problematic than Mayor Brown either recognizes or is willing to admit. There are many troubles which make the rank and file veterans see a terrible failure of this department to carry out its mission in the near future. Recent status reports, though harsh, have been too kind. With a leadership style in any way similar to our record, we're in trouble. We need a leader who can address the problems we have as a department instead of using their energy and resources to protect their own status, to explain why problems exist instead of how they'll be addressed. We need someone with the vision, the intellectual breadth, to see the department as a function of society. We need someone who has some experience in the outside world and who understands that all relevant and useful knowledge is not already held by our department. We need someone who can recognize talent, good ideas, and put them to use. Someone who knows what a leader means when he tells his assistants to speak their minds, that he can agree with himself and doesn't need them for that, but that he needs their input especially when it differs from his own. Someone who understands and appreciates the scientific model for solving problems, and who sees the organizational chart with the bottom at the top so that the leaders are there to support as they direct. Someone who leads people to do the right thing because they want to, not because they have to. Someone who will say that things are not all right and here's what we're going to do to improve them. Perhaps you will keep an eye out for these qualities and we might have a real leader for a change, instead of just a chief. Thanks again for your work on this and good luck.

Subject: Genesis Park

Jeff, I've been meaning to corner you at one of the YPO functions to spend a minute discussing a couple of topics. First and foremost, I wanted to introduce Genesis Park which is a "new economy" investment company that's been recently founded here in Houston by Paul Hobby, Fred Lummis, Steve Gibson, Peter Shaper, Bruce Herzog and myself. Paul and I were hoping to have an opportunity to spend 30 minutes with you in the next few weeks to describe in person what we're all about. And to be clear, we're not looking for Enron money, we are raising money from private individuals. We've already met with Jay Fitzgerald and Steve Horn to establish the Enron/Genesis business relationship.

I also wanted to get your views on Enron's approach to oil trading and whether the Vitol Group presented an opportunity. Frankly, I think Vitol is an excellent acquisition target although the success they've enjoyed in the last year or two will make it a bit more difficult. They have an unbelievable franchise, but they also have some fundamental weaknesses which could be exploited to Enron's benefit. I'm shooting in the dark here but hopefully it's worth some discussion.

If you can free some time during this busy holiday period to meet, it would be greatly appreciated. Paul and I could come to your office, or possibly you could come to our "offices" over on Hermann Park. We're buying 17 acres on Hermann Park adjacent to the Park Lane Towers which we plan to develop into a technology park. For the time being, we are officing in a high tech shed on the property!

Please let me know. Thanks/Neil.

Where is Salvaggio, Rene Molina, has anybody heard from these people?

God, there's nothing better than to here the Z-man go after Beek. Even if it is E-abuse, I can still almost hear the teeth squeeking and pots crashing in the kitchen, ah, the smell of near rancid bacon and of course Elsie's never-fail (send-you-upstairs-flyin') p-cakes. Yeah, that sounds better...plus the train was headed over a washed out bridge.....and you saved everybody on the train also.....yeah...now we're getting to the truth. Jeff, it's been a while since our meeting at the Portfolio Grand Slam Event in may... but i wanted to brief you on an effort we brought to you guys viz making a market in private equity.

originally began the conversation with Lou Pai, but since his departure we've been engaged with ford cooper and health scheisser in the xcelerator group. ford's had numerous conversations with the relevant internal enron folks. we've helped confidentially engage some external players/experts in the venture/private equity space.

initial progress looks promising.

all the best, clay

Dear Suzanne,

I'm sorry for the delay in returning your e-mail. We're catching up now after taking some time off over the holidays.

Unfortunately, due to Jeff's travel schedule, a meeting in January or even early February is not feasible. I would be happy to schedule a meeting in late February or early March if that timing works for you. Please call me should you wish to proceed on that basis.

Subject: Congratulations/January Meeting

Dear Jeff,

Congratulations on being named Enron's new Chief Executive Officer. What an outstanding and well-deserved accomplishment.

Cary Maguire and Dean Niemi would like to make a trip to Houston in January to visit with you if your schedule permits. Cary is particularly interested in touring the trading floor. Would you please let me know if you would be willing to meet with them and, if so, when the best time would be? Thank you.

Also, Liz Williams, SMU's Treasurer, met with Bart Schachter of Blueprint several weeks ago. She said his fund looks like a good opportunity. She shared with me that even though SMU is currently over its allocation to venture and private equity and has therefore slowed down on new commitments, the University's investment advisor is evaluating Blueprint. She also told me that decisions on venture and private equity can often take quite awhile. I will keep you posted on any further developments that I learn.

Warm regards,

Mr. Collins,

Mr. Skilling is considering this invitation and has requested a bit more information. What time are the awards presentations taking place on April 11? Mr. Skilling does have an appointment in New York at 8:00 a.m. on April 12 that would be very difficult to reschedule. Given this time constraint, I'm not sure it will work. Subject: RISK AWARDS PRESENTATION

I am sure you are aware that as part of first ever Risk Awards - published in January - Enron Corporation achieved the accolade: Energy/commodity derivatives house of the year.

This award was won, not simply because of your lead in energy and power in the US, but because of the lead Enron has taken in new areas of risk management.

We very much hope you can join us to be presented with the Award at the Risk 2000 Europe Congress in Paris on April 11th - we invite you to attend the conference as a full delegate and I am sure there are a number of sessions which will be of interest to you. A formal invitation will follow from our editor.

We also intend to publish a special supplement that will provide Awards winners with an excellent opportunity to celebrate their achievements through advertising.

This supplement will be distributed with the March issue of Risk and to all delegates attending the Risk 2000 Congress.

For more details on the Risk 2000 congress please click this link: <http://www.riskpublications.com/risk2000euro/index.htm>

I hope that my email is clear and I will contact you shortly to find-out your reactions to our proposal - however if you have any questions beforehand - please feel free to contact me.

Please respond to Keith_Williams"A YPO International Event"

www.myypo.org/solutions

Would an investment of five days be worth a comment from your child such as

"Dad, this is the best trip I've ever been on." Michael Montgomery, son of YPOer William Montgomery (Cincinnati)

Or would that same five days with your child be valuable if you could say:

"It was clear that each parent and child had shared a special time that could only be experienced in the wilderness. Away from television, the Internet and the conveniences we mistake as necessities, we all rediscovered the simple pleasures of conversation and time together." Tonn Ostergard (Nebraska)

Enjoy the splendor of the Rocky Mountains in a program exclusively designed for you or your spouse and your child. As you rock climb, rappel, hike and backpack you will strengthen your family bonds as you are physically challenged in this rugged yet beautiful environment. Your nights will be spent under the stars as you tell stories around a roaring campfire, play games and enjoy fellowship with other YPO families.

For fourteen years, the Parent Child Mountain Adventure has helped facilitate stronger one-on-one family bonding experiences for over 300 YPO members and their children. Professional guides from Young Life's Wilderness Ranch guide YPOers and their children through the three-day journey. This is not a luxury retreat. You will wear your sweaty cap as a badge of courage and pride. Flexibility and laid back leadership will be your chief assets as you and your child learn more about each other.... and you will learn more about yourself.

Fast Facts Chairman: Craig Estes (West Texas) Location: Creed, Colorado USA Fee: US$1895.00 per member/child pair. Children must be at least 10 years of age. Program is limited to 20 parent/child pairs (a total of 40 participants). Fee includes registration, meals and ground transportation during the event. Hotel/Accommodations: Best Western Tomichi Village, Gunnison, Colorado (nights of July 20 and July 24.) To access the YPO negotiated rates, call the hotel directly at 1-800-641-1131. Thirty days or more before the event, the hotel may release the YPO block of rooms. Registration or More Information Contact: YPO Global Services Center Email: askypo@ypo.org Phone: 1-800-773-7976 or 1-972-650-4600 Fax: 1-972-650-4721 Cancellation Policy: Full refunds will be made 30 days before the event if notification is received in writing. Karen, thank you for the update. Please note in future communications that "McKinzie" is actually spelled "McKinsey." As Jeff worked there prior to coming to Enron, this is a typo he would notice. I have changed it in the copy of this message given to him. SRS

Subject: Harvard Update

Leonel Azuela (Harvard) verbally DECLINED our offer to become an Associate at Enron. He will accept a position with McKinzie in Houston. He said he really appreciated the calls and the follow up especially from Jeff Skilling and he wants to keep in touch since he will be in Houston. Leonel said that due to his financial situation, he really had no choice but to accept the McKinzie offer at this time. Other than that, he admires and respects Enron and thought we did a top notch job with our follow up. He really envied the opportunities we had to offer. It was truly a monetary issue.

BUT... It's not over, we still have 4 outstanding offers for HBS that expire on February 15th. Please call the candidates and offer your assistance in answering any questions about the organization or Houston in general that may help them with their decision.

The candidates are: David Frost 617-562-1872 Scott Landry 617-661-8499 Amy VanBuskirk 617-868-1816 Antonio Vivanco 617-868-9008

I spoke to everyone last week and I know that a few want more time. For example, some candidates are doing very targeted searches that are outside of the campus recruiting process. Unfortunately, we cannot extend our deadline. I honestly think we have a chance with these candidates. It is important to emphasize the opportunities at Enron because most of them have other offers that exceed our package, but if they look at the BIGGER PACKAGE, we are very much a contender. It's our job to sell them on that long term opportunity and to look beyond the short term.

Thanks for your help.

Karen Marshall Recruiting Manager

Jeff:

Congratulations on the work you have been doing at Enron. It must be an exciting time for you and I enjoy watching the company grow under your direction. On a different note, my firm has continued to expand it's business practices. We have been working with companies like Shell, Texaco, Coca-Cola, Dell Computer, Bristol-Myers Squibb and others. I would very much appreciate having the opportunity to meet with your head of human resources (or anyone you feel appropriate) to present our capabilities. Any assistance you could provide in this area would certainly be appreciated.

Thanks again and look forward to staying in touch.

Dear Jeff:

I read in the newspaper that you have decided to leave Enron. I'm sure you are receiving thousands of letters like mine from many admirers everywhere. As I said to you on other occasions, I truly enjoyed serving on your committee to select the new fire chief. Your talents and natural gifts are so great that not having you at Enron will clearly be a huge loss for that company and the rest of us in the Houston community. Best of luck and Godspeed in your next endeavor. As I said to you the last time we spoke, I still would like to find some way to be on your team in the future.

I heard about your departure from Enron two weeks ago. I was very surprised. It must have been a very difficult decision for you as I know how much of your heart and soul you poured into transforming Enron into the preeminent company that it is now. I hope that you are very proud of what you accomplished over the past 12+ years. I have never come across a management team that even approaches the quality of you, John Esslinger, Ken Lay and Rich Kinder. I have also never come across a business visionary anywhere near you and I expect that I, and everybody else, will see you accomplish great things again. But whatever you do, I hope that this message finds you feeling well and happy.

Mr. Skilling,

I was compelled to contact you by the following information: While reading eCompany Magazine March Issue, I came across the following quote from Jeff Skilling CEO of Enron.

"Keeping the system up. You dread the chance the system will crash. We had an air conditioning problem last April or May, and went down. The next day the front page of Gas Daily Journal had a story that said "Gas trading stops because Enron online is down.""

Netbotz offers early warning to just that type of failure and more. <http://www.netbotz.com>

As indicated in the attachment it has been determined the October 22 event will stand with slight modifications regarding the invitations. In addition, HTC will attempt to organize a second event that will afford participants the opportunity to hear and hold discussions regarding current concerns among their colleagues.

A conference call has been scheduled for tomorrow, Friday from 10:00-10:30 with Cris and Lee to further discuss a title and 1-3 paragraph write-up for the invitations.

Subject: Guidance

Hello Jeff

A voice from the past. Hope you are doing well.

I wanted to gain your assistance to point me to the most appropriate person I could interview at Enron. I am helping a client understand how companies in the US Natural Gas and Power industry are coping with the challenges in their industry in terms of developing and retaining the "right skills". So, someone who could provide an external perspective of how players in the industry are coping with the challenges as well as an internal perspective on Enron would be great for me to interview. If that means more than one individual, that is fine too.

Hope this is not too much of an imposition. I'll undertake the conversation over the telephone and keep it short.

You can reach me on email: sgiridha@prismintl.com or on my cell phone: 240-603-6084.

Thanks a lot for your assistance.

Hi Jeff.

I am Mike's brother, Ronnie, living in San Diego and a member of the San Diego Chapter of YPO. With all the propaganda being spread about the electricity and energy crisis we are experiencing here in California, I thought it would be worthwhile to invite you to town to give us an insider's view on what is really going on (aka, the "truth"). Is there anyway you can find time in your busy schedule to visit us over dinner with a short talk and a question and answer period. The sooner the better.

I will schedule a "special" meeting of our chapter to accommodate any dates that work for you.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Hi Jeff,

I've been asked by the Mayor's office (see email below) to confirm interest in a news conference on the search committee with the Mayor, yourself and possibly other committee members present. I'm happy to take the lead on organizing this - I just need some idea of timing on your end as well as your preference on participants.

Mr. Hollingsworth asked me to confirm that we were keeping the idea of a news conference about the Search Committee in site. He would like us to begin negotiating for a spot on the Mayors calendar. You mentioned that January 19 was the goal to have the committee in place. We need to determine a date certain for selection of the members to schedule a press release/conference.

Additionally, what has been the discussion regarding having Mr. Skilling or other members of the Committee present at the news conference? What are the scheduling issues with this aspect?

I have included Monette Goodrich in this conversation. She is the Mayors Communication Director and will be handling the press release and news conference.

Thanks for your response on behalf of Jeff. If Jeff can't make it, we will settle for second-best. How about Ken Lay?

Dear Mr. Morgan, On behalf of Jeff Skilling, thank you very much for the invitation to speak to the San Diego Chapter of YPO. Jeff was very flattered and somewhat intrigued by your offer. However, given the current demands on his time, he must respectfully decline your invitation. Please let me know if you have any interest in another senior-level representative of Enron speaking to your group, and I'll be happy to do what I can to facilitate that for you. Again, Mr. Morgan, thank you and the San Diego Chapter of YPO for the the opportunity. Subject: Cogent Communications

Dear Jeff,

Hope you are doing well. It has been quite a long time since we last spoke when I was with Pathnet. I have since started another company called Cogent Communications and the company has been progressing very well in the last year.

I'm in the process of putting together an Advisory Committee for the company composed of industry, business, and political leaders. I think your depth of experience in telecom could add a lot of value to the company and am looking to gauge your interest level in joining the committee. The commitment is limited to one meeting per year and you would receive stock in the company. Thus far we have commitments from Sergio Zyman of Coca Cola and are in discussions with Bob Dole and Vernon Jordan.

Cogent is a facilities-based ISP offering very high bandwidth Internet access to business users in the top tier cities in the US. Utilizing the latest in fiber-optic technology, we've built an all optical nationwide network and are offering 100mbps non-oversubscribed service for a flat rate of $1,000 per month. Feel free to take a look at our website at www.cogentco.com. The company has raised over $350MM in financing to date with investors including Oak Investment Partners, Broadview Capital, Texas Pacific Group, Capital Research, and Worldview Technology Partners.

Please give me a call/email at your earliest convenience. I look forward to speaking with you and catching up.

Sincerely,

Dave Schaeffer, CEO 202-295-4201

Subject: advanced arbitrage enabling technology out of Caltech

Jeff,

I'd like to introduce you to our company and set-up a one-hour conference call and discussion with you and/or someone you trust to evaluate this opportunity.

iSpheres Corporation is co-founded by the Chairman of Computer Science Department at California Institute of Technology.

iSpheres enables dynamic arbitrage opportunities in commodities trading. With iSpheres, trading firms wrap applications like steel marketplaces, energy marketplaces, demand planning systems, and production planning systems as components, and derive additional business value by monitoring these components for real time interdependent events and then reacting to those composite events based on business rules.

iSpheres provides a software framework for developing and deploying these loosely-coupled Web Services or Meta-Applications. These applications are assembled from multiple components, each of which was previously itself an application and data source, to enable new business processes.

For example, a $22 billion investment bank uses the iSpheres Meta Application Framework, to detect and react to interdependent market events. This enables them to optimize and automate the acquisition and response to relevant dynamic events in their Market Intelligence information environment.

The build out of the Internet and the rapid deployment of eBusiness applications over last several years has established the need and created the ability to build and deploy loosely-coupled Web Services or Meta Applications.

Please advise, otherwise I'll follow up with you in 3-5 days. Thanks,

H. Enzo Olfati Account Manager www.iSpheres.com tel.978.461.4840 direct.510.302.6767

P.S.?I have also e-mailed this to others at Enron?to determine the appropriate contacts to?have the discussion with.

Dear Mr. Skilling,

You and I met last April when you spoke at a Rice Alliance event, and you were quite kind to follow-up my request for a meeting with some Enron contacts. I'd appreciate your assistance again.

This week I had the pleasure of meeting Dr. Lay at the GasTech conference at the George R. Brown while I was the guest of the Deputy Assistant Secretary of Energy. During the meeting and subsequent luncheon address, I was amazed to hear some of the facts about how Enron has 're-invented' itself through the power of eBusiness, coupled with a culture anxious to embrace change. As I recall, statistics like 70% of today's revenues from businesses started in the last 10 years.

The Offshore Technology Conference (OTC) is the industry's largest event and recently has drawn close to 50,000 participates. The General Session is the biggest draw at the conference, and for 2001 the topic will be how eBusiness is transforming the industry. Each of our panel members will have 5 - 7 minutes to share their own company's story then we will move into a panel discussion mode where we will discuss the future of eBiz in the industry, barriers to adoption and potential benefits. The following leaders have accepted our invitation;

- 1) Theirry Pilenko Schlumberger-GeoQuest, President
- 2) Bob Peebler Halliburton, VP of e-Business Strategy and Ventures
- 3) Steve Peacock BP, VP of Digital Business
- 4) Linda Sarandrea PetroCosm, VP of Global Hub Operations
- 5) Michael LaMotte Bank of America, Managing Director

I WOULD BE DELIGHTED IF YOU WOULD JOIN OUR PANEL. Enron has obviously moved well beyond petroleum into a number of exciting areas. As I gather, much of your company's success can be traced to it's leadership, it's culture and eBusiness tools. Your insights and comments would be very helpful for our audience, as well as perhaps our other panel members. The event should be well covered by local and national press.

Shortly we will begin our promotional campaign and would like to include you as a distinguished member of the panel. Please advise of your interest and availability.

regards

Art J. Schroeder, Jr.

Dear Jeff:

I was great catching up with you and the other committee members Friday night. Thank you again for asking me to join the group. I thoroughly enjoyed our work and serving our city. I really hope we will have another opportunity to work together again in the near future.

I have materials regarding Antonio Villaraigosa, the candidate for mayor of LA. The election is on Tuesday, June 5 and the polls show the race to be a toss up. The outcome will likely depend upon which candidate can use radio and TV most effectively over the last few days. I understand that his campaign went into debt to purchase the advertising over this week end through election day. Contributions sent Monday overnight will certainly be noticed and appreciated. Contributions would be to Villaraigosa for Mayor, they are not tax deductible and are limited to $1,000 per person, including corporations, labor unions, PACs and individuals. Whether Villaraigosa wins or loses, you certainly should consider a fund raiser after the election. (It would need to be structured in a particular way.) Villaraigosa will remain a star and may eventually be elected either Mayor of LA and later Governor. He will remain very influential even if not elected. Jeff, obviously, the overall issue for Enron and your brethren energy companies is how to turn around the terrible image of "predator"

energy companies in California and other states frightened by the perceived effects of energy deregulation. Unfortunately, too many energy spokesmen have used what I believe is the wrong tactic: espousing the theoretical virtues of free markets instead of conveying concern for the consumer. All politicians in California are going to be somewhat wary of being perceived as "giving in" to the energy interests. However, I believe that the Latino community in southern and northern California would be open minded in the energy debate and would be impressed with support for Latino candidates and causes. As you know, Latino elected officials now control the California State Assembly. Before I moved my family to Houston four years ago, I had lived in Los Angeles for seventeen years and I still have a pretty good network. I would be pleased to help in any way I can, including making introductions, and discussing options.

Let me know if you are interested in any of this. (cell:

Dear Harvard Alumni:

I am a recent Harvard College graduate (June 2001) and have moved back to Houston to develop an HIV/AIDS youth education project. I was temporarily collaborating with the Baylor International Pediatric AIDS Initiative (BIPAI) at the Baylor College of Medicine and am now seeking to partner with AIDS Foundation Houston. I aim to launch Grades4AIDS in H.I.S.D. during the 2002-2003 academic year as either an AFH project or an independent NPO. This organization seeks to simultaneously promote academic achievement, community service, peer-to-peer HIV/AIDS youth education, and youth leadership while also fundraising for pediatric AIDS research and support. The following is the basic premise of our project:

A corporate sponsor will agree to donate $0.50 (this amount will be corrected annually with increased participation) per B+ or above (or equivalent measure, i.e. 88-90) that every participating student receives during every grading period. Peer tutoring and interscholastic incentive programs will encourage students to achieve. Participating students will engage in an active dialogue about HIV/AIDS and have myriad opportunities to get involved in and lead peer education initiatives and volunteer in the Houston HIV/AIDS community.

What I am seeking from the Harvard alumni in Houston is support in the form of contributions of time and/or money. We are currently putting together an Advisory Board and Board of Trustees and working hard to fund our project and operational costs through May 2003.

Please visit our website at www.grades4aids.org for more information and feel free to contact me at dmkim@post.harvard.edu. I can also be reached by telephone at (713) 932-8822. Thank you very much for your time.

Sincerely,

Dona Kim

Jeffrey,

I tried sending this to you on Monday but had gotten an email rejection message from your email server? With summer time here, I hope you get some vacation in and that all is well with you and your associates. Permit me to again update you from our end:

TREND

At Noble Systems, we continue to expand and with an increasing number of new customers whose organizations had previously used some other predictive dialer but have now switched to us. One such new installation has just reported a net 20% increase in performance by switching to ATOMS.

REVAMPED WEBSITE

Noblesys.com has been totally revamped and with several new items added! Also, it is now a lot easier to navigate. Please check it out!

In addition, under 'News' we've posted the announcement of our email ACD Module e_ATOMS ERMS (Email Response Management System) and our collaborative browsing module e_ATOMS "chat". Please let me know if you'd like additional product information.

You'll also see our new trademark and "Contact To The Nth Degree" advertising tag.

NEW FEATURE

Agent-specific messaging. When an answer machine is encountered, ATOMS can leave a standard message without the call ever going to agent. Now with some agent identifying code in the dialing record, these messages may now be 'agent-specific': in the agents own voice: "Sorry I missed you. This is Dan Donaldson of Noble Systems calling about a wonderful opportunity. Please call me at 888-434-2537."

DYNAMIC CAMPAIGN BUILDER (DCB)

Dynamic Campaign Builder (DCB) has earned Best of Show at CT Expo in Los Angeles (Computer Telephony Magazine - April Issue - details ATOMS DCB).

Dynamic Campaign Builder (DCB) enables supervisors to create entirely new outbound, inbound and blended campaigns and with graphical looking agent screens including branched logical scripts using embedded variables - and all without needing a programmer!

Please advise if you'd like more information on DCB and/or our DCB User Manual, I'll be glad to get it to you.

PERFECTSCRIPT

PerfectScript (Patent pending) eliminates people immediately hanging up because they notice the 'predictive delay time' do not want to hear "another telemarketer". PerfectScript is now in demand because on all outbound calls it minimizes this 'predictive delay time' by always promptly responding to the answering 'hello' with a recording in the agents own voice e.g. "Hello, this is Jeffrey of Enron Capital & Trade Corporation, may I speak with". As the agent, you hear most of your pre-recorded voice segment and when it ends, you simply speak and ask for the person being called.

And very importantly, with PerfectScript, every call automatically starts very positive and upbeat!

Additionally, PerfectScript also allows agents to use at will other pre-recorded segments e.g. responses to questions, standard instructions, disclosures etc. throughout the day. The other party does not detect any voice segment as being pre-recorded because there are no clicks or beeps. Agents talk less but since they pre-record these segments also using very positive voice inflections, their presentations are also more effective and upbeat!

OTHER SIGNIFICANT FEATURES

Interactive Voice Response (IVR) type functionality - Very importantly, callers can now get retrieve their information and balances without ever going to a live agent. Callers can be prompted for touch tone entries which may be used for routing, additional menu selections and/or voice messages.

Advanced Skills-based Routing - In addition to intelligent call routing to designated agent groups based upon unlimited ANI/DNIS combinations, ATOMS also enables you to rate each agent's proficiency in each of an unlimited of categories that you define. ATOMS will connect each incoming call to the most proficient agent available for the categories previously identified within the customer record.

ATOMS has now been internationalized. Among other benefits, support for all time zones and international telephone numbers is now included.

Near toll quality 16:1 end-to-end voice compression for remote locations.

Complete fault tolerance (via clustering).

EXTENDED SUPPORT HOURS

Responding to our growing install base, we now actually staff our customer support center 24 hours a day Monday thru Friday and 22 hours on Saturday. Support access via pagers is now only from Saturday night at 10:00 PM to 12:01 AM on Monday morning.

EXPANDED PRODUCT FLEXIBILITY

ATOMS is now also available in lower-priced inbound-only configurations and/or inbound-only upgrades.

Also, with many ATOMS features, customers need only purchase the number of concurrent seats actually required. For example, predictive licenses, Digital Recording (DRS) ports, PerfectScript DRS ports, Email ACD (ERMS) licenses etc. may be shared by many different agents at different times as long as the total number of agents using any feature at any time does not exceed the total number of licenses purchased.

Jeffrey, I do hope you have a great summer and that this update is helpful. Whenever I can be of help in any way, please do not hesitate to call.

Have a great week!

Dan Donaldson Noble Systems Corp. 407-248-3400, 888-434-2537
